Charge Russia Collaborated With U.S.

'No' to Viet Truce

TOKYO (AP) — Red China said today the Soviet Union tried to end the Viet Nam war early this year "in tacit agreement and close collaboration" with President Johnson.

"Since (the Soviets) are cooperating so closely with the U.S. imperialists in united action, it is, of course, impossible for (Chinese) Marxist-Leninists to join in and take 'united action' with them," the Chinese said.

The Chinese, in an 18,000-word article in the party theoretical journal Red Flag, said the Soviet peace moves started in January when Soviet leaders transmitted to Communist North Viet Nam a U.S. demand that it stop supporting the Viet Cong, stop supplying it with guns and stop attacks on the cities of South Viet Nam.

The article outlined these responses:

In February, Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, en route home from North Viet Nam, stressed in talks with Chinese leaders in Peking "the need to help the United States find a way out of Viet Nam."

"This was firmly rebutted," the Chinese said, and "we expressed the hope that the new leaders of the Soviet Communist party would support the struggle of the Vietnamese people and not make a deal with the United States on the question of Viet Nam."

Kosygin agreed, but "the new leaders of the Communist party of the Soviet Union soon went back on their promise."

On Feb. 15, the day after Kosygin returned to Moscow, the Soviet government officially put before North Viet Nam and China a proposal to convene a new international conference on Indochina without prior conditions.

This amounted to an endorsement of President Johnson's offer for "unconditional negotiations," Peking claimed. It charged that the Soviet leaders have been trying to arrange peace talks without mentioning withdrawal of U.S. forces from Viet Nam.

The account continued: The Soviet Union then began to insinuate negotiations could be held "if only the United States stopped its bombing of North Viet Nam."

"And sure enough, not long afterwards Johnson came out with the maneuver of 'the temporary suspension of bombing.'"

After their proposals failed, the article continued, the Soviets began to collaborate with India and Yugoslavia — "both lackeys of U.S. imperialism" — as "brokers" on the Viet Nam question.

Condition Satisfactory

More Heart Pains Suffered By Ike

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported in generally satisfactory condition today after a second attack of heart pains but his doctors raised at least a possible specter of "a full blown heart attack."

A medical bulletin from the team of doctors attending the 75-year-old five-star general said:

"It is not uncommon for patients with known coronary disease to experience repeated episodes of chest pains which may or may not progress to a full blown heart attack."

Eisenhower has a record of coronary disease — his major heart attack of 1955.

In their mention of a full blown heart attack the doctors defined the phrase as meaning "coronary thrombosis and myocardial infarction," which means heart muscle damage.

Capt. Wallace Hitchcock, public information officer here who read the doctors' statement to newsmen, was asked if the recurrence of pains means further hospitalization.

Hitchcock replied that doctors said the stay is based on the evaluation of the individual patient and the doctors will give a combined statement when available.

The doctors said that in the meantime they will continue the accepted therapy and prevention "which is to treat the patient

Randall Raps Protests On Viet Policy

Congressman William J. Randall, Independence, spoke to the Sedalia Lions Club at its noon meeting Wednesday on Viet Nam. The meeting was one of the largest attended by Lions and guests for several months.

In his talk he told the group of the demonstrations in the United States against this country's actions, and was emphatic in his statement regarding the recent law passed imposing a ten-year prison sentence and $5,000 fine against those persons who would burn their draft cards. "It isn't ten years and or a $5,000 fine but ten years and a $5,000 fine for persons convicted under the act."

Continuing he said, "Berkeley, Calif., University of Southern California, could easily be called the 'Capital of Objectors' from acts and demonstrations carried on there over the past few months."

He reviewed the participation of the United States in the Viet Nam conflict showing various

Tax Commission Hears 3 Appeals On Assessments

The State Tax Commission heard and reviewed three cases appealed on tax assessments in Sedalia this past week. Appearing before the Commission were Clinton Muller representing the Merlan Development Co., for the Rainbow Addition; Henry C. Salveter for Mrs. George Bischoff on the property at Fourth and Ohio occupied by the Missouri Public Service Co.; and Claude Meyers in his own behalf on real estate.

County Assessor Jerry Trotter announced personal taxes will probably take a jump after Jan. 1, when the State Tax Commission will assess automobile valuations. All automobiles will be valued by the Commission and tax forms sent to the County Assessors, in the past it has been up to the County Assessors to place the valuation on automobiles.

Independence Declared

Wilson Denounces Move

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today denounced Rhodesia's seizure of independence as "an illegal and self-destructing action" for which Ian Smith and his ministers have been fired.

Reporting to the House of Commons on the crisis shaking the British Commonwealth, Wilson also announced:

—Rhodesia's expulsion from the sterling area.

—A ban on the export of goods to the country.

—Suspension of Commonwealth preferences so far as Rhodesia is concerned.

Such preferences are trade advantages enjoyed by members of the Commonwealth.

Wilson detailed these additional reprisal measures:

—A control on all fiscal dealings between Britain and Rhodesia.

—A crippling ban on further British purchases of Rhodesia's prized $112 million a year tobacco crop.

—An embargo on the export of arms, and spares for existing weapons, to Rhodesia.

—An end of all British economic and other aid.

Aluminum Companies Back Down

Price Hike Reversal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of the nation's four big aluminum producers backed down today in the face of stern Johnson administration opposition and canceled price increases the government had called inflationary.

The Aluminum Co. of America—No. 1 in the industry—called it quits Wednesday night by rescinding the increases announced Monday. Reynolds Metals followed two hours later.

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., third biggest, joined the procession midmorning today. That firm called the price raises "restorations" and said its action followed "similar cancellations by other major producers."

That left Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., as the one big holdout at the time.

Alcoa's decision to cancel the price increase was announced at a hastily called night press conference by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He hailed it as "a patriotic act."

The defense secretary also said the government agreed to an immediate resumption of negotiations for the orderly disposal of a surplus of 1.4 million tons of aluminum now held in national stockpiles.

Pettis County Tax Statements Mailed

County tax statements went into the mail Wednesday afternoon from the office of County Collector Raymond F. Wilder and taxpayers can expect to begin receiving the annual tidings soon.

Wilder said this year's mailing numbered some 13,000 envelopes. He borrowed a small cart from the courthouse custodian to wheel the statements to the post office.

City tax bills were mailed on Nov. 1.

United Fund Effort Push In County

Need Only $12,000 To Meet Goal Of Drive For Year

County United Fund Chairman, Charles Schauwecker, called together his County Committee Tuesday for a re-evaluation of the United Fund in the county. Attending the meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Claycomb, Bill McCune, Dr. C. W. Monsees, Jim Reed, and Hank Monsees.

Hank Monsees reported that the city of Sedalia had contributed over $67,000 and the county $500, $220 coming from one gift. Monsees expressed the feeling that this was good, in that few of the communities in the county had been worked, and that given an opportunity, the county would want to give its "Fair Share."

Schauwecker expressed the opinion that the late harvest had adversely effected the campaign, but felt that with renewed interest and a full explanation on what the county received from the agencies, that county pride would bring good results and that the $12,000 needed to meet the goal of $79,833 could be reached.

Director Monsees explained that a majority of the agencies of United Fund help people in the county, and a tabulation has revealed that 1,795 people in the county were served in some way by agencies of the Fund. Over 300 children from the county were in the swimming program of Red Cross and over 500 veterans were assisted. There are over 100 boys from the county in Boy Scouting in five troupes, Monsees said.

It was estimated that one-fourth of the children aided by Cerebral Palsy and ten children served by Children's Mercy Hospital were from the county. There are 480 children in 4-H and about 25 girls in Girl Scouting. The two nurseries are available to county children. Four

Rhodesia Break From British

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent today, the first such declaration against Britain since the American colonies broke away in 1776.

Britain retaliated swiftly in effect outlawing Rhodesia. Prime Minister Harold Wilson declared in the House of Commons that Smith and his ministers had been fired—an action which will be ignored in Rhodesia. Wilson asserted his government will have no dealings with the Rhodesian regime.

Wilson expelled Rhodesia from the sterling area, banned exports, including British purchases of Rhodesia's $112 million a year tobacco crop, ended all British aid, suspended trading preferences.

Britain embargoed the shipment of all arms to this central African country, and asked for an urgent meeting of the U.N. Security Council.

Britain's allies, including the United States, and Commonwealth members are expected to join in ignoring the declaration and in imposing economic sanctions.

While Smith still was speaking on the radio, British Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs announced that Smith and all his ministers had been dismissed on orders of Queen Elizabeth for "an unconstitutional act of independence."

With his proclamation of independence, however, Smith had ceased to recognize the powers of the British governor and London has said it will not use force.

Smith and his Cabinet determined to go it alone after months of fruitless negotiations in which the British government demanded guarantees of eventual political power for the colony's 4 million Africans. Smith and his colleagues are determined to preserve rule by Rhodesia's 225,000 white settlers.

They paraded in a light rain in Wichita, Kan., in one of a series of events in a daylong program of remembrance. The day there was in sharp contrast to recent Veterans Days, which went unnoticed except by small clusters of veterans groups.

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in Hamilton, Ohio, put on an "Operation Boost" parade supporting American involvement in Viet Nam. Marchers have been asked to bring personal items to be sent to servicemen there.

Students at Alabama College at Montevallo have scheduled a blood drive for U.S. troops, plus a fund raising campaign to provide a special gift for the American forces. Other activities include a flag raising ceremony and a speech by Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala.

Dave Watson, commander of the VFW post in Muscatine, Iowa, said the hope behind the town's parade is that it "will offset some of the publicity being given to the demonstrations against U.S. policy in Viet Nam." Bremer County, Iowa, veterans are calling their parade a "walk for the men in Viet Nam."

The national headquarters of the American Legion distributed 10 million lapel pin flags for "Operation Show Your Colors." Each pin comes with a card saying "Americans are serving the cause of freedom in Viet Nam. I wear my country's flag to show that I support their efforts."

The presidential palace called a press conference for 4 p.m. Friday (3 a.m. EST) arousing speculation that the president would bow before the flow of votes.

One of Macapagal's closest political advisers conceded that the Marcos trend appeared irreversible. Other political allies of the Liberal party president also were telling friends defeat appeared inevitable.

Marcos claimed he had won by more than a million votes and told a news conference the result could be changed only by "massive and unthinkable fraud."

Marcos was carrying his vice presidential running mate, Fernando Lopez, along with him by a slim 40,936-vote margin.

When pride has been accomplished, confidence follows close on its heels and confidence gives birth to meaningful plans, assets

An Ambush Backfires On Viet Cong

Yank, Vietnamese Planes Respond; Kill 130 Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A Viet Cong force ambushed a South Vietnamese unit on a main highway west of Saigon today, but 130 of the Communists were killed by combined ground and air action, a U.S. spokesman reported.

The spokesman said American and Vietnamese planes hammered the attacking Viet Cong and killed 100 of them. He had no information on government casualties or other details of the action 5 miles west of Ba Ria.

A large force of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops pressed an offensive in sandy, rolling coastal terrain 350 miles northeast of Saigon, but results were meager.

Two Viet Cong were reported killed and 13 suspects were detained in the search-and-destroy mission 18 miles northwest of Chu Lai on the coast of the South China Sea. No Allied casualties were reported, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The Americans stormed ashore Wednesday with the Vietnamese in the first joint amphibious operation of the war against the Viet Cong. Col. Thell Fisher of Springfield, Va., was in command of the operation, the first time an American was put in operational control of a Vietnamese fighting unit.

No major ground action was reported elsewhere in the country.

A new U.S. tactical fighter squadron arrived in Viet Nam to bolster the air war against the Viet Cong. U.S. planes kept up the daily pressure on targets in North Viet Nam, and Vietnamese planes joined them in attacks in the South.

The new squadron of F100 Super Sabre jets had been based in the Philippines and at Da Nang. U.S. Air Force jets dropped 340,000 propaganda leaflets 180 miles west of Hanoi on Dien Bien Phu, site of the decisive French defeat in the Indochinese War.

Marine units on patrol in the northern coastal provinces reported they killed two Viet Cong. One patrol suffered light casualties when a booby trap exploded near Da Nang, 380 miles north of Saigon, a spokesman said.

General Trouble Knits People Closer Together

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — General prosperity never knits people as closely together as does general trouble.

That's when they learn "the buddy system."

The overnight blackout here proved this anew. The metropolis wasn't left in total darkness. It was lit by a warm glow.

On ordinary days this titan of cities is made up of eight million crowded individual human islands, most of whom are indifferent to each other and dwell in a protective, shell-like isolation.

If they have private woes, they generally bear them alone.

Each has his own ambition or goal, and sometimes each feels like all the other 7,999,999 people are getting in his way. So they step on each other's toes, and race against each other for taxicabs, parking spaces, department store bargains, theater tickets, and subway, bus or train seats.

The unofficial policy is "devil take the hindmost." If a stranger starts to speak to them on the sidewalk, their first reaction is one of suspicion: "What is this guy trying to get from me?"

It is this attitude that gave rise to the oldest cliché about New York City: "It's a great place to visit, but I sure would hate to live there."

But when general trouble comes, a truce is called here in the routine strife. The prisoners of the concrete and high glass canyons realize how much dependent on each other they really are.

The herd then becomes a real herd. Instead of seeking petty disadvantages, people help each other. Sharing a new discomfort brings them together in a new camaraderie. Grumpiness is replaced by a feeling of genial good will. The complainer is laughed out of face.

It was that way during the famous blizzard of 1888. It was that way during the record two-foot-plus snowfall of 1947. And it was that way during the great blackout of 1965, when most of the lights went out, subways stalled, and even the television sets went blank.

When a power breakdown spread a deepening pall across the metropolis, the commonplace became an unknown. The city turned into one vast friendly neighborhood, lit only by car lights, matches, candles, flashlights that roved like fireflies, and a big full mellow harvest that shone like a blob of butter.

Everybody had an eerie or comic adventure. They climbed up and down inky stairwells. Stranded employees in lofty skyscrapers joked and told stories, played cards by candlelight, bunked down on office couches. Heaven only knows how many stenographers got kissed in darkened corridors by junior executives who never even knew their first names before.

For days people will be telling each other their experiences, feeling a kindling warmth that all feel who have met trouble together. But gradually the warm human glow will evaporate and they will become private islands again as the routine frictions of the commonplace wear them apart.

In a way, it's a shame that only in common danger do we appreciate our mutual need for one another.

Wednesday TV Escape From Reality

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An amusing — and mighty familiar — little comedy idea on NBC's Bob Hope Theatre Wednesday night was just the right prescription for some of the tired 30 million people recovering and getting back to normal after Tuesday night's power blackout.

And so was the problem of "The Virginian's" hard luck neighbor and the derring-do of the "I Spy" agents chasing an escaped spy. NBC, in fact, was a comfortable channel on Wednesday night for a smooth sail away from stern reality.

"Mr. Governor," the Hope show comedy, was busy building laughs on the old device of having an especially tall, husky, pipe-smoking man forced to disguise himself as a woman. It worked with Jack Lemmon and Tony Curtis in a hit movie and it worked again Wednesday night with Tom Tryon. It was very, very broad comedy, of course, plus a mixed pair of romances and the anticipated windup — Tom lost his wig.

Throughout the day — particularly in news shows and in a pair of news specials — the TV networks busily tried to clean up the big story of the previous night's big blackout. It covered most of the essential picture and word bases, but came no closer than any other medium to solving the big mystery — the cause of the trouble.

Producers of CBS' "What's My Line?" after considering the matter for two days went back to their original idea of putting a close friend of Dorothy Kilgallen's into the late columnist's spot on the show panel next Sunday night. They chose Kitty Carlisle. The other guest on the panel will be Steve Allen, once regular on the show.

Starting next Monday, NBC's Huntley Brinkley news summary will be in color. Just what the addition will bring to its coverage is an interesting question. Both the "Today" and

Tragedy Visits Same Family Second Time

FAIRFAX, Va. (AP) — Three children who lost their mother seven weeks ago in an auto accident were orphaned Wednesday when their father was killed by electric shock while working atop a power pole.

The father, Oscar Y. Fields, 30, died instantly when he touched a live wire carrying 7,000 volts. His wife, Ruby, was killed Sept. 16 when her car collided with a tractor-trailer truck south of Manassas, Va.

Their three children are Eugene, 12, Theresa, 5, and Cecil, 4.

"Tonight" shows are using color and in both cases, it seems to this viewer, it adds little to our appreciation or enjoyment. One just hopes that the news show's editors will not henceforth pick stories on the basis of the quality of color film available.

Council Beats Down Opposition

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council beat down opposition today from the Vatican Curia and voted to put missionaries in the Curia office that controls their worldwide activities.

It was the second time this week that the council rebuffed moves by members of the conservative-dominated Curia.

Various national bishops' conferences, asked to give their opinions on a document on indulgences drawn up outside the council by a group of Curia theologians, assailed it earlier this week as badly timed and unnecessary.

The council vote today dealt with a key section in the council's document on missionary activity. The passage proposes an expanded directorate for the Curia agency that runs the Church's missionary program, the office for the propagation of the faith.

The Curia had sought to tone down these proposals which give missionary bishops a voice in the congregation.

Council spokesmen said the exact vote on the issue would be announced Friday, but that there had been overwhelming approval for the missionary-backed text, without the changes sought by Curia members.

Such preferences are trade advantages enjoyed by members of the Commonwealth.

Wilson detailed these additional reprisal measures:

—A control on all fiscal dealings between Britain and Rhodesia.

—A crippling ban on further British purchases of Rhodesia's prized $112 million a year tobacco crop.

—An embargo on the export of arms, and spares for existing weapons, to Rhodesia.

—An end of all British economic and other aid.

Chinese Reds Defect; Fly Planes Away

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Three Chinese Communist airmen defected to Nationalist China today and flew their Ilyushin 28 jet bomber to Formosa, the Chinese Nationalist Defense Ministry announced.

Two of the crewmen were injured, one seriously, in landing the plane at an air force base in north Formosa, the ministry said.

The three were identified as pilot Lee Hsien Ping, a native of Shantung Province; navigator Lee Tsai Wang, of Szechwan Province, and radio operator Lien Pao Sheng, of Hopei. The navigator and the radio operator were injured, the navigator seriously.

The plane skidded off the runway during the landing because of bad weather and the crew's lack of familiarity with the terrain, an official said.

"On Side of Angels"
The phrase "on the side of the angels" first was used by Disraeli in a speech on the Darwinian theory of the "origin of the species." "The question is this: Is man an ape or an angel? I, my lord, am on the side of the angels."

Exchange Pondering Move to Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Kansas City Star said today the Army and Air Force Exchange Service, which operates post exchanges for U.S. military personnel around the world, may move its headquarters from New York. The paper said Kansas City is one of the places under consideration.

A dispatch from the Star's Washington bureau said a major reorganization of the service would phase out four regional service centers — at Baltimore, Md., Atlanta, Ga., San Antonio, Tex., and San Francisco.

The single headquarters and support center would employ about 1,100. The headquarters in New York has about 700 employees.

The newspaper said there is a possibility it will remain in New York, but other cities under consideration are Atlanta, East St. Louis, Ill., and Fort Worth, Tex.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dent appears in the aluminum controversy between industry and government.

For one group of senators, an Air Force jet supplies the transportation. Two other delegations travel by propeller aircraft.

ALUMINUM: Two of the nation's top aluminum producers—Alcoa and Reynolds Metals Co.—have had a change of mind. They're rescinding their week-old price increases.

The Alcoa decision was the first, and it came via a news conference called by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Just last Saturday, McNamara announced that the federal government planned to release 200,000 tons of its surplus aluminum stockpile next year.

At the same time, Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, called the industry price boosts inflationary.

At his latest meeting with the press, McNamara hailed the Alcoa decision as patriotic and said he thought the government might be able to cut its planned aluminum reduction.

SENATORIAL TRIPS: Three groups of senators are headed overseas on special missions—but their mode of transportation will be different.

A team of five headed by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield will travel by Air Force jet as it visits trouble spots in Europe and Southeast Asia.

Delegations led by Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D - Ark., and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., will fly in C118 propeller - driven transports.

Both Fulbright and Morse have been at odds with the administration over U.S. policies in Viet Nam. And Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, also has been critical of U.S. action in the Dominican Republic.

Nuclear Technician Vanishes

HEIDELBERG, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Army reported today that a nuclear technician based in Germany disappeared on a trip to the United States after delivering classified material to an Army depot in New York State.

The man was identified as CWO Spencer D. Harris Jr. His hometown was not immediately available nor was the site of the depot to which he delivered the material.

The widely circulated newspaper Bild Zeitung said Harris was fully informed on the location and plans for all U.S. nuclear weapons stored in Germany. It said he also had knowledge of nuclear tactics to be used in case of emergency.

Bild Zeitung said American security agents around the world had been alerted to look for the missing man.

The Army said Harris left Germany Aug. 25 and went on leave after delivering his classified material.

Harris was last heard from Sept. 21 when he cabled for an extension of his leave.

The Overseas Weekly, a private newspaper published here for American forces in Europe, reported today that the disappearance of another American soldier, Sgt. I.C. Glen R. Rohrer, 44, of West Allis, Wis., had set back Army espionage in Europe 5 to 10 years.

Rohrer left his intelligence unit in Frankfurt on Aug. 16. His car was found abandoned near Weiden, on the border between Czechoslovakia and West Germany, and bloodhounds followed his scent to the border.

The Overseas Weekly, quoting high intelligence sources, said Rohrer crossed into Czechoslovakia with top secret information and the names of hundreds of Western agents and contacts operating in Communist countries. As a result, many operatives have been pulled back into the West, the weekly reported.

Unemployment Pay Falls In October

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Unemployment compensation payments fell to $1,572,361 in October, the lowest since September, 1957.

Herman Julien, director of the Employment Security Division, said today the October total was $332,366 less than October a year ago.

In September, 1957, the cost of unemployment compensation payments was $1,310,317.

Initial claims, usually considered an index of new unemployment, numbered 22,134 in October this year.

Pedestrian Killed

WASHINGTON, Mo. (AP)—A car struck and killed a man Wednesday as he was crossing state route 100, four miles west of Washington. He was William Feldmiller, 58, of rural Washington.

People In The News

NEW YORK (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D - Mass., who returned Wednesday night from a tour of Viet Nam, said he was asked by some servicemen if the anti-war demonstrations reflect the feelings of "most young people in the United States."

He said he had assured them that "the majority of Americans are in support" of Viet Nam's right to self determination.

BOSTON (AP)—Actor Claude Rains spent his 76th birthday Wednesday recuperating from surgery at New England Baptist Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said Rains underwent an abdominal operation Monday to prevent internal bleeding. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Republican National Chairman Ray Bliss, 57, hospitalized five days ago with chest pains and a muscle spasm, was to leave today for his home in Akron, Ohio.

His physician planned a last-minute physical examination as a precautionary measure. Bliss said he has had no further discomfort since leaving the hospital Tuesday.

Bliss became ill last Friday while attending the Western States Republican Conference. Doctors said they found no trace of any heart ailment.

Youth Feels Teeth In Long Arm of Law

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The law has teeth in it, a Los Angeles youth has learned. What's more, they bite.

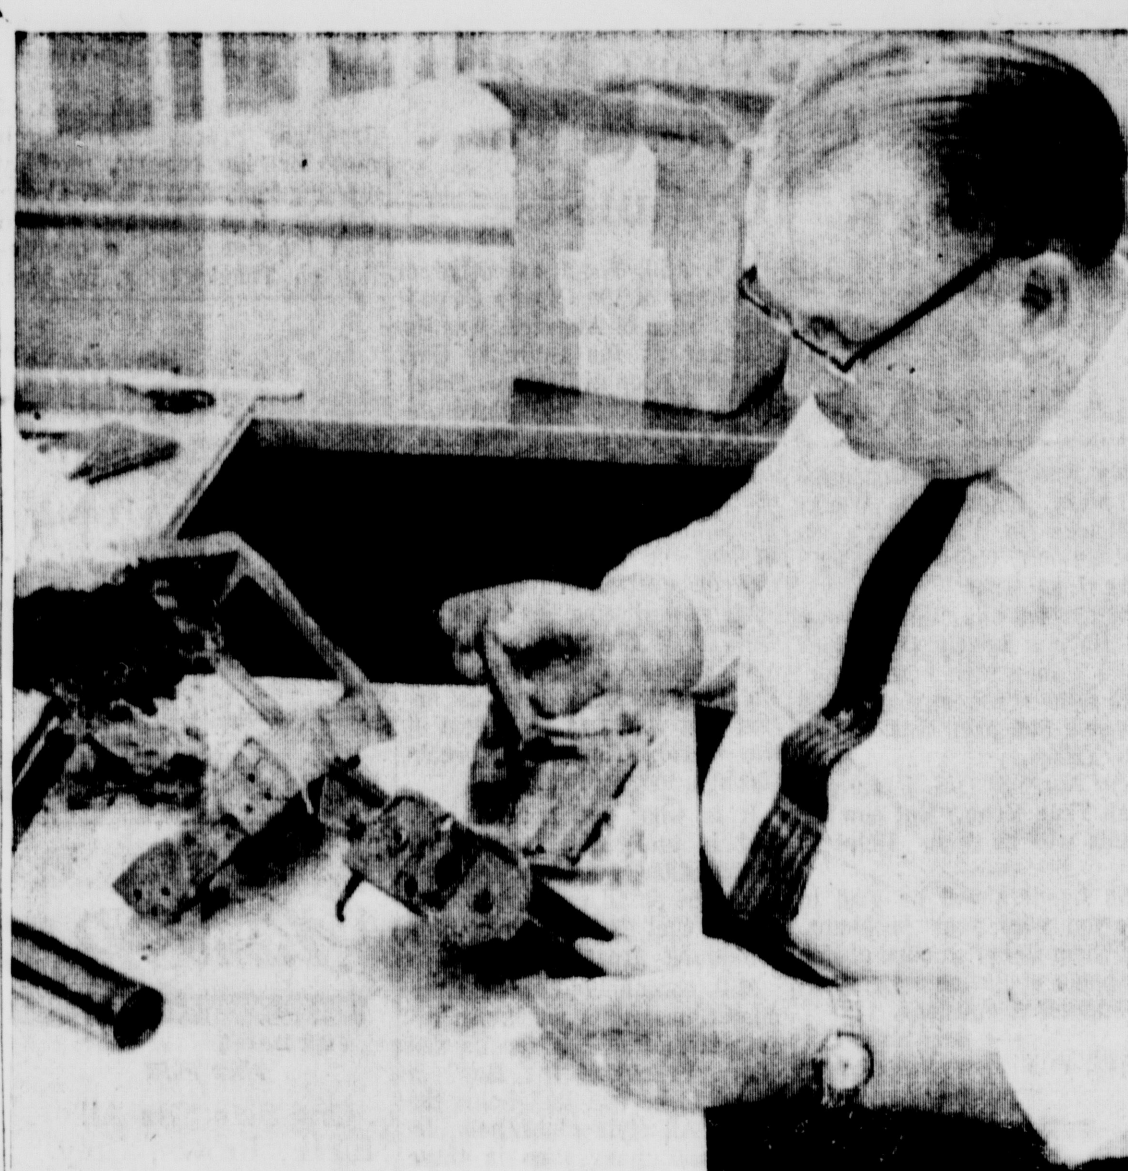

Sheriff's Deputy William Saunders said he was escorting William Maddox, 19, to Superior Court, where he was to be tried Wednesday on five counts of kidnapping for the purpose of robbery.

En route, Saunders said Maddox tried to grab the handcuff key. Saunders yelled for help. Maddox put his hand over the officer's mouth to prevent him from talking.

In the process, Maddox' fingers inadvertently landed between Saunders' teeth.

The deputy clamped down. Maddox screamed. Reinforcements arrived and Maddox was subdued.

His trial was later postponed until next week.

WASHINGTON — O. E. Patton, of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Bureau of Safety, inspects the flight record of the American Airlines Astrojet that crashed into a Kentucky hillside killing 58 of the 62 persons aboard. The device, which operates from takeoff to landing, appeared to be damaged by fire, but there was hope it would give a clue as to what caused the crash. (UPI)

Pope Identified: Trial Continues

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Franklin Kjeldgaard, sole survivor of the June 4 Big Springs, Neb., bank holdup, in which three fellow bank employees died, unhesitatingly identified Duane E. Pope, 22, in federal district court Wednesday as the man who fired the shots.

Kjeldgaard, still partially paralyzed from bullets fired into his back and neck as he lay face down on the floor, began his testimony with a firm identification of the Roxbury, Kan., man.

From his wheel chair he looked the length of the counsel

Freak Bull Missing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—If you see a Brown Swiss bull with four horns and three eyes, don't call a psychiatrist or an optometrist. It might be Elmer.

Elmer was reported stolen Wednesday from a carnival. His owner, Harvey Williams, 60, told officers the animal was on display earlier Wednesday but that his van and Elmer later disappeared.

Williams said he valued the bull at $25,000.

The famous English longbow was from five to six feet in height and an archer could shoot six aimed shots a minute at an effective range of 200 yards.

Ann Landers

Answers
Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my boy friend, Dale, asked me if he could dress up in my clothes just for the fun of it. I thought he was joking, but when he showed me the wig he had bought for himself I knew he was serious.

When Dale dressed up and put on make-up he looked like a very pretty girl. I couldn't get over it. He said it would be a great gag to take a walk and see if any fellows made passes at us. I was so curious to find out if he could get away with it that I agreed.

I know this sounds crazy, Ann, but Dale got more whistles than I did—and he loved it.

Dale is not a homosexual. I know for sure that his sex drives are normal. He just likes to dress up like a girl for kicks. I'd like to marry Dale but this gimmick bothers me. Should I? —STYMIED.

Dear Sty: Dale is a transvestite. This does not mean he's homosexual but it is a deviation, nonetheless.

If you want to marry a man who enjoys wearing your clothes and getting passes from men, go ahead. But please urge him to get professional help right away.

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago I gave birth to a premature child. She lived three days. My husband and I were heartbroken.

Almost every day since I came home from the hospital with empty arms I have received a gift (which is really a sales pitch) or a telephone call offering a free sample or free services for the new baby. Each letter and phone call brings added sorrow.

Birth and death are both a matter of public record. Why don't these companies check before sending a gift or making a telephone call inquiring about photographs or books for a child who didn't live?

Please publish this. It could do a world of good.—MRS. C.

Dear Mrs. C.: I'm with you. The outfits that make all those phone calls to get new customers SHOULD be able to make a few MORE phone calls to the hospitals and determine whether the baby lived to go home.

Dear Ann Landers: Thanks a lot for taking our side against Old Creaky Bones who knocked the rock. Sure, our music is different from the music our parents danced to, but almost everything else has changed so why should anyone expect the music and dances to be the same?

My brother and I had a long discussion with our parents about this. They are old, like you—between 45 and 50. We asked what songs they used to sing and dance to. Here are some titles—and I don't know of any today that are as goofy: "I Scream, You Scream, We All Scream for Ice Cream"; "The Music Goes Round and Round and It Comes Out Here"; "Does the Sparmint Lose It's Flavor on the Bedpost Overnight?"

Scout Head Speaks To Optimists

Bob Mill, Scout executive of the Lake of the Ozarks Council Boy Scouts of America, was the speaker at the Optimist Club Tuesday noon at Bothwell Hotel, in observance of "Youth Appreciation Week."

With the world growing smaller through electronics, rockets, jet planes and communications around the world in minutes, new discoveries in food processing, new discoveries in medicine, it is a break-through to new things. Today we are watching the birth of a new nation that wants to be a part of the world. This is a break-through, too, Mill said.

It is what you do, he said, that is important. It is small contributions each makes, added to the small contributions of others, that combine to become something great.

Mill complimented the Optimist Club on its work. An organization that has for its slogan: "Friend of the Boy" is bound to be one that helps the youth. All civic clubs help, he said, and many men in these clubs work in Scouting.

When a child is born it does not know hate, Mill stated. We teach it hate — why don't we teach it love?

He quoted a famous educator as saying: "Education is a boy on one side of a log and a man on the other." The man gives of his beliefs to the boy, his examples, man can influence a boy, but, he pointed out, there are more boys than men who will sit on that log.

A man has 24 hours a day, some is wasted, some is spent, and some is used to benefit others.

A few years ago a farm of 319 acres was given to the Boy Scouts. The past year two Councils have surveyed, planned and plotted the land to develop a Scout Camp. There is a need for more men in Scouting, more who will catch the vision of what this means.

The farm is located south of Versailles about 14 or 15 miles. The land was given by the son of a man who settled there, and, with his wife, cleared the timber, had a saw mill by which they saved the logs to build the buildings. They planted an apple orchard and here they spent their lives. When the son inherited the land he gave it to the Boy Scouts. This farm belonged to the Hohn family.

It has water, sanitation, a commissary, there is a rifle range, a first aid station. It is a place where boys will learn to take care of themselves. Boy Scouts has always been an organization of teaching boys to prepare for future life, he said, and here they learn cleanliness, teamwork and many other things.

We believe young people are wholesome and good, but they need guidance and example. We hear a great deal about the youth of today and how bad it is, Mill commented, but this has always been. A few years ago, he said, some archeologist found in an excavation in Egypt an inscription 2,000 years old that read: "The young people of today are so bad that they will never survive another generation."

He ended with a poem challenging men: "If There Isn't a Man to Lead."

Mill was introduced by Harry Young.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Wray Schroeder, who also gave a tribute to youth.

The invocation was given by Lee Deason. Singing was led by Ronnie Jones, with Mrs. Lillian Maynard at the piano.

Special guests were Bill Hiatt, president of the Lake of the Ozarks Council; Lacy Belt, district chairman; and two Eagle Scouts, Leland Sellers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sellers, Route 2, and Rick Belt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lacy P. Belt, 1425 South Sneed.

Other guests introduced were: David Steele, Florida, guest of Wray Schroeder; Gene Cook, formerly of Springfield, now living in Sedalia, who is a member of the Springfield Optimist Club; and Ronnie Jones, guest of Harry Young.

Woman's day will be observed this year on Nov. 28 instead of Dec. 5, with Mrs. Lawrence Bash, wife of the minister of Country Club Church, Kansas City, as the guest speaker.

"My Knock-Kneed, Consumptive Mary Jane"; "Do Wacka Do Wacka Do Wacka Do"; "It Must Be Jelly Cause Jam Don't Shake Like That."

The current hits, "Mrs. Brown You Have a Lovely Daughter" and "I Wanna Hold Your Hand" make some sense, at least. Be a pal again and print this.—NORMAN TEEN.

Dear Normal: O.K. I'm a pal. (Yeah Yeah Yeah.) But now the parents will be mad. Help!

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

County Clerk Finds Two Pairs Of Glasses

County Clerk J. H. Green has two spare sets of eyeglasses.

Wednesday morning as he arrived for work he found a pair of glasses in the courthouse parking lot. At noon Green picked up a second pair.

"I thought it was pretty unusual for in all these years at the courthouse this is the first time I've ever found anything," the veteran county official opined.

One pair is sunglasses while the other is of a corrective nature. Green is holding them at his office for the losers.

Is Fulbright Being Left Out By LBJ?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's approval of a European-Asiatic factfinding tour by Sen. Mike Mansfield has raised new speculation over White House relations with Sen. J.W. Fulbright.

While Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, and four colleagues are assessing relations with European allies and probing conditions in Asia, Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads the Foreign Relations Committee, is scheduled to attend a minor conference in New Zealand.

Fulbright has contended that the Johnson administration over-reacted when it intervened militarily in the Dominican Republic. He has suggested a new and longer pause in North Viet Nam bombings to encourage the Communists there to negotiate. The White House has said this would not do any good.

Fulbright heads a group scheduled to attend a meeting of British Commonwealth parliamentarians in Wellington, New Zealand, the first week of December. While this may furnish valuable contacts, it seems unlikely to produce any world-stirring pronouncements.

The freeze that seems to have developed in relations between the President and Fulbright after the latter's Sept. 15 criticism of the Dominican course shows no signs of breaking. Senatorial colleagues said Fulbright wrote Johnson a note while the President was in the hospital for his gall bladder operation and got back an acknowledgment from a staff member.

It was not exactly clear how the Mansfield trip materialized. But it was known that it was not authorized through the Foreign Relations Committee and that Fulbright was surprised by the announcement.

Mansfield has been critical of some aspects of Johnson's Viet Nam policy. But he has supported the President's course despite his original opposition to escalation of the war.

He said Wednesday in a statement:

"To the extent that we speak abroad, it will be solely to stress the essential unity of this government in the search for an equitable and lasting peace in Viet Nam and for stable and mutually satisfying and useful relations with all nations similarly inclined."

Mansfield's group will include one other Foreign Relations Committee member beside himself, Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt. Others going along are Sens. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii; J. Caleb Boggs, R-Id.; and Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The extent of White House interest in the trip was indicated by the fact that the Mansfield group will travel by Air Force jet while Fulbright's delegation and another headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., were told they would have to get slower planes or commercial accommodations.

Gladstone Manager Takes Burbank Post

GLADSTONE, Mo. (AP)—Joe Baker, city manager of this Kansas City suburb since July of 1946, announced he will leave Jan. 1 to become assistant city manager at Burbank, Calif.

He will be working again under E. Robert Turner, who was city manager of Boulder, Colo., where Baker worked before coming to Gladstone.

The Burbank post pays $18,500 a year.

Baker, 40, started his public service career with the police department at Wichita, Kan., in 1952. He also worked for the Kansas Bureau of Investigation and the Kansas City Police Department. He is a graduate of Wichita University and the University of Kansas.

Wants Dropouts Put In Service

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, has suggested that high school dropouts be placed in the armed services.

"They've got to be some place where they can't drop out," he said Wednesday. "We've got to help these young people become team players in our democracy, or we won't have one."

Hershey visited the state Selective Service headquarters and later addressed the city Chamber of Commerce.

He estimated the draft rate will stay at about 36,000 men a month nationally.

Sees Famine Unless Food Output Rises

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A world wide famine of incomprehensible magnitude and devastation is inevitable unless the world food output in the next 35 years is doubled, Sen. Frank Carlson, R-Kan., said today.

"People will not continue to starve quietly, and Communist China will have her eye on them," Carlson told the 34th annual meeting of the National Reclamation Association. "She boasts that she will encircle the capitalist world and this could be if more food is not produced to fight the war of hunger."

"If what I have said becomes a prophecy, the chaos that would result could make Viet Nam look like a neighborhood argument."

Carlson's speech was prepared for a luncheon.

Approximately 700 reclamation officials, representing 17 western states and assorted federal agencies are in the second day of a three-day meeting. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall addressed the convention Wednesday.

Carlson, a former governor of Kansas and a leading agricultural spokesman, spoke of "the impending world crisis of mass starvation." He said the crisis is coming about "at such an amazing pace that our national attitude and agricultural policies which, for 30 years, have centered upon ways to deal with crop surpluses, must be abruptly and unmistakably changed."

"It is not generally realized that our nation's surpluses have diminished through the combined effects of land retirements—government subsidies—and increasing agricultural exports. "The United States, right now, is experiencing a shortage of dried milk, rice, and everything containing protein—except soybeans, of which we have a carry over of perhaps a hundred million bushels."

Between now and the end of the century, the world population is expected to double, soaring to more than six billion people, Carlson said.

"The implications of the contemporary world situation on the future of America agriculture are numerous... we may expect our food surpluses to fall below reserve levels within a relatively short time."

"We may expect a change in the historic American attitude from its concern with crop surpluses and curtailed production, to concern for expansion of production."

"It is not typical for Americans to let a half billion people end their day in anguish of hunger."

Interstate Highway Mileage Up Steadily

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department announced Wednesday that 590 miles of the interstate highway system were opened to traffic from July through September, bringing the total to 20,000. As of Sept. 30, Kansas had 535 miles open to traffic with 264 miles of interstate designated construction to go, and Missouri had 664 miles open with 445 miles left.

Heavy Flak Rugged For US Planes

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. air attacks on Soviet-built missile sites in North Viet Nam have been sharply stepped up, but the Reds' conventional antiaircraft guns have taken the heaviest toll of attacking American planes.

Air Force and Navy fighter-bombers have destroyed or damaged seven surface-to-air installations in the past week and 10 since the beginning of the month. Only three SAM sites were hit between the end of July and November.

Seven planes, including rescue aircraft, were lost in attacks on missile installations last weekend, but only one was downed by a missile. The others were hit by conventional ground fire.

"It's a risky business," said a U.S. military spokesman. "The concentration of flak aimed at our planes is as heavy as, if not heavier than, any in World War II."

Missiles are one of the Communists' most potentially dangerous weapons, but their success seems to have been relatively limited. Of the more than 140 planes lost since U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam began, only seven are known to have been shot down by missiles.

Much of the credit is due the American pilots who have coped from the beginning with the missile threat. They have developed tactics to minimize the danger from the SAMs.

Pilots returning from raids against missile installations have reported being fired on by the SAMs. But some of the assaults have been carried out with great speed — one took only 90 seconds. Pilots say the Communists may not have had time to launch the complex projectiles with any degree of accuracy.

On the other hand, all the SAM installations are heavily protected by automatic weapons and antiaircraft guns which can produce withering fire in seconds.

All except two of the 13 sites hit so far were mobile installations. These can be erected and dismantled within a day.

Informed sources have said that as many as 30 fixed SAM installations ring the cities of Hanoi and Haiphong. There are indications that the number of portable facilities is much higher and that these are spread throughout much of the country.

Despite dangers involved in strikes against missile facilities, the United States has begun a concerted campaign to destroy as many of the sites as its pilots can find.

"There are plenty up there, so we expect to be busy for some time," said one military source.

Marcos Holds Strong Lead In Balloting

MANILA (AP)—The vote total of Sen. Ferdinand Marcos reached near-commanding proportions today as counting in the Philippine presidential election passed the halfway mark.

Official totals, however, were lagging far behind the unofficial tallies, and there was no sign President Diosdado Macapagal, seeking a second term, was ready to concede.

With more than 4.5 million votes counted, Marcos' lead over Macapagal was 434,780.

The Philippines News Service's unofficial tabulation gave Marcos 2,333,031, Macapagal 1,899,245 and third party candidate Raul Manglapus 364,017.

Marcos, 48, the Nacionalista party candidate, also appeared to be carrying his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Fernando Lopez, with him.

Lopez had 2,121,654 votes to 2,085,694 for Liberal Sen. Gerardo Roxas. In the early counting Lopez and Roxas had traded position several times.

Almost 48 hours after the polls closed Tuesday, the official Election Commission totals were running more than 2 million votes behind the unofficial count.

Unofficial estimates said 8.5 million persons voted. The official figure has not been announced.

Many areas — particularly the province of Mindanao, where Macapagal was hopeful of large majorities — have not been heard from officially. There were fears of election irregularities.

Name Is Exclusive Under Court Order

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Ike Turner's singing group has sole right to the name "Ikettes" under a temporary order signed Wednesday by U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox.

Cox granted the order at the request of Turner, who produces the Ike and Tina Turner in California. Turner charged three former employees were using the name "Ikettes" developed by his organization and known in all 50 states.

The matter will come up for a hearing on a permanent order and $50,000 in damages later.

The defendant Ikettes, Robbie Montgomery of St. Louis, Jessie Smith of Alton, Ill., and Vanetta Fields of Buffalo, N.Y., had appearances scheduled in Mississippi.

UAW Sending Aid To South Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union is sending a fully equipped pediatric clinic and three tons of food and medical supplies to South Viet Nam.

Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO union, said the $250,000 shipment will allow South Vietnamese trade unions to establish a children's clinic.

after the count, apparently were holding back delivery of the returns under pressure of politicians from both parties.

"There must be some monkey business," said Juan V. Borra, chairman of the election commission. "It couldn't have been a communications breakdown."

Borra ordered representatives in the provinces and local election registrars to investigate the causes behind the delay. Police were ordered to continue guarding the ballot boxes.

Man and Wife In Good Shape After Surgery

CHICAGO (AP) — A Wisconsin couple, married for 37 years, had heart surgery together and are reported in "very good condition" today.

Mrs. and Mrs. Alvin Dru'vor of Prairie du Chien, Wis., underwent open-heart surgery Wednesday by Dr. M. S. Mazel. The operation, called a cardiopexy, was to unblock arteries leading to the heart.

Dr. Mazel said the Dru'vors probably will be up and walking today and will be back at work in two or three weeks.

Mrs. Inez Dru'vor, 60, was tabbed for the operation after accompanying her husband, Alvin, 62, to Chicago for a physical examination two weeks ago.

Tests disclosed that she had a heart condition, similar to the one her husband had for seven years, only worse.

Hospital officials said the couple decided to have their surgery the same day to eliminate concern for each other that might possibly cause damage to their hearts.

Dru'vor is president of Travel Mat, Inc., a national paper mat printer.

See Snowball Effect From Bonds Sale

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Kansas City sold $19 million in civic improvement bonds Wednesday, and City Manager Carleton F. Sharpe estimated the money will trigger $90 million worth of construction projects in three years.

As an illustration of how the money will snowball, he cited Mid-Continent International Airport, which is in the initial stages of development about 17 miles northwest of the city.

Wednesday's sale of general obligations included $5.4 million for the airport. Together with a reserve of $2.3 million available, this will assure $6.8 million in federal grants.

When this is all set, the city expects to sell $14.5 million in revenue bonds for building the passenger terminal. Rents collected from the airlines, concessionaires and other users will pay off these bonds.

"For each of our tax dollars invested at the airport, $4 will be provided by other public or private sources," Sharpe said.

He estimated the use of the bond money will bring $8.5 million in private construction, $14 million worth of facilities in a complex of medical institutions on "Hospital Hill" at the south edge of the downtown business district, $3.5 million in new facilities built by the Kansas City school district, $13 million in state expenditures — mostly for expressways — and $10.6 million in federal matching funds.

"Once we pull out, we will lose our friends in nearby countries and they will have to choose which route to take. The pressure would be too great not to join with the communistic trend against democracy."

In his talk the Congressman was somewhat critical of the Un-American Activities Committee of Congress in its investigations. "The Committee, as I see it," he said, "could do well to spend much more time on investigating the core of these demonstrations, who is creating them, and the groups which are encouraging such acts that are being carried on in this country against the principles for which we were founded." And, he pointed out these facts — after questions were asked — whether university and college administrations encourage such demonstrations and who is responsible.

He also touched on the situations in the Caribbean Sea area, Cuba and other South American countries, explaining the conditions in this area are far better at the present time than in several years.

In closing his talk, Congressman Randall said, "Congress is very optimistic over the conduct of the campaign."

reasons why this country must remain there to keep communism from creeping through that portion of the world. "Once we pull out, we will lose our friends in nearby countries and they will have to choose which route to take. The pressure would be too great not to join with the communistic trend against democracy."

In his talk the Congressman was somewhat critical of the Un-American Activities Committee of Congress in its investigations. "The Committee, as I see it," he said, "could do well to spend much more time on investigating the core of these demonstrations, who is creating them, and the groups which are encouraging such acts that are being carried on in this country against the principles for which we were founded." And, he pointed out these facts — after questions were asked — whether university and college administrations encourage such demonstrations and who is responsible.

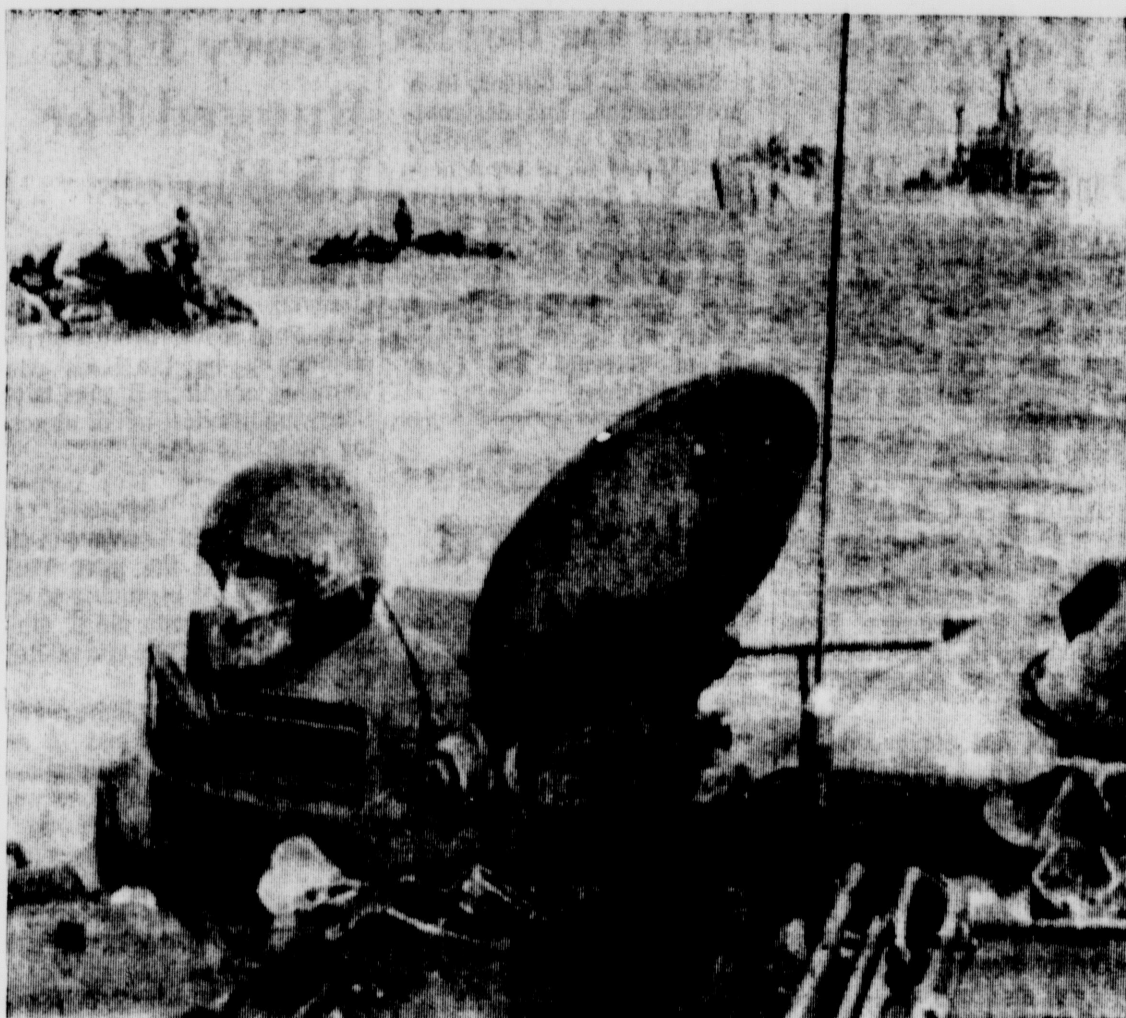

He also touched on the situations in the Caribbean Sea area, Cuba and other South American countries, explaining the conditions in this area are far better at the present time than in several years.

In closing his talk, Congressman Randall said, "Congress is very optimistic over the conduct of the campaign."

Congressman Randall is also a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

The speaker was introduced by D. Kelly Scruton, program chairman for the meeting.

Guests at the meeting were Henry C. Salvator of William Bunn, Robert Fritz of Sheriff and continuous program of research and development is needed.

Hitting at the need to retain trained men in the military, Carroll said the biggest waste in the military is the annual loss of people on whom a great deal of time and money has been spent training to perfection.

Many of these people are lost, he said, because the military career is not competitive—in pay or prestige—with other public or private careers.

"Would not the richest honor to the veterans of all battles be the creating of a society where the only veteran of war would be the veteran of the world conference tables?" he asked in conclusion.

John Henry Brooks acted as master of ceremonies of the observance. He introduced County Judges E. L. Birdsong, C. M. Purchase, Rep. Joe Raines of Pettis County, Kenzie Miller, who was marshal of the parade, Col. Hobart R. Quinn of the National Guard, Maj. Gen. John C. McLaughlin (Ret'd), Mayor L. L. Studer, who made brief remarks, Mrs. Fannie Nieberg, who placed the memorial wreath at the foot of the doughboy statue, and several representatives of veterans groups.

Introduced at the conclusion of the ceremony was Robert Vogler, a VFW member, who was general chairman of the Veterans Day program and parade. The Rev. Walter P. Arnold gave the invocation and both he and Rev. Father Richard Kalaf pronounced benedictions.

The parade began at 10 a.m. and passed north down Ohio Avenue from Seventh to Main Street, west on Main to Osage Avenue and south on Osage to Fifth where it broke up. Bands and marching units went directly to the courthouse lawn at the conclusion of the parade and the bands provided marching music until the opening of the ceremony at 11 a.m.

Methodist District Meeting Tonight

The Wesley Methodist Church will be hosts to about 300 lay people of the Sedalia District at a dinner meeting at 6:30 today. The Sedalia District comprises an area from as far south as Urbana, north to Highway I-70, west to Clinton and Warrensburg and east to Tipton.

Bishop Eugene M. Frank, Bishop of the Missouri Area of The Methodist Church, will address the meeting. General Chairman of the meeting is District Lay Leader Lynn Hackler, a member of the Epworth Methodist Church and Superintendent of Mails at the Sedalia Post-office.

Two visiting Lions introduced were E. L. Sutherland and Ellis M. Huston of the Windsor Lions Club.

A report was given on the club-sponsored fruit cake sale. It was reported more than 100 cakes had been sold at the present time.

Bob Cain, chairman of the broom sale last summer, gave a final report and presented more than $380 to the club to be used in the blind activities and children's activities of the organization.

President Dr. O. J. Durnell presided over the meeting.

At a conference Wednesday doctors had said Eisenhower would be confined for at least two weeks. He had planned to fly to Walter Reed Hospital Friday to convalesce.

The physicians said in a bulletin:

"General Eisenhower spent a good night without further pain or discomfort. He is comfortable this morning and his general condition is satisfactory."

In effect the physicians were renewing what they said Wednesday night after recurring heart pains forced his return to an oxygen tent.

The pains Wednesday were "more prolonged and of longer duration" than the mild attack of angina pectoris, or heart pains, which occurred just after midnight Monday night, doctors said.

Announcement of the sudden reversal in the condition of the 75-year-old five-star general came about an hour after the doctors had said he was making a good recovery and might be playing golf again in two weeks.

Late Wednesday night, Capt. Wallace Hitchcock, Ft. Gordon press officer, said Eisenhower had been "comfortable since 6 p.m."

But he wouldn't say whether this meant that Eisenhower was completely out of pain or there had been any solid improvement in his condition.

Earlier Wednesday, it was announced that the former president would be flown to Washington Friday to enter Walter Reed Army Hospital for the remainder of his two weeks convalescence.

However, slightly over an hour later, Hitchcock told reporters:

"While the general had a fine morning, this afternoon he had a return of his chest discomfort. Plans for his departure for Walter Reed have been held

Against Oklahoma Team

Home Field May Give MU Little Advantage On Sat.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 11 — (Special) — Hey, sports fans, let's be sure and recognize the fact that Ol' Mizzou will try to resolve a football dispute with Oklahoma in the Tigers' own backyard here this Saturday.

Nice and cozy for Coach Dan Devine's Tigers, huh? That good ol' home field advantage, right? Friendly crowd, familiar surroundings, no travel problems, etc.

Gotta be worth at least a touchdown to Missouri, it says here.

Seven points anyway.

What a laugh, yet!

For instance, Missouri's "home-field edge" has been a pure myth in three of four games this year. Witness these scores:

Kentucky 7, MU 0
UCLA 14, MU 14
Nebraska 16, MU 14

Currently sporting a 5-2-1 record, the Missourians have lost both those games, and tied the other, in Memorial Stadium.

Obviously, the Bengals don't know how to win where the experts say it's easiest — on the home greensward. The whammy is for real in this MU-OU football series.

It hurts to tell, but Missouri hasn't beaten the Sooners in Columbia for 20 years. Back in 1945, Coach Chauncey Simpson's squad handled Oklahoma here, 14-6 — enroute to a conference title and a Cotton bowl bid. Nine subsequent football decisions here have gone to the troops from Norman; in fact, over the past 25 years Ol' Mizzou has recorded just three victories (1941, 1945, 1960) and three ties (1942, 1944, 1964).

Those are appalling figures, and a senior-stocked M.U. squad will be trying to reverse this distressing trend Saturday in this scrap for the league's second-place roost. Mizzou stands 4-1 in Big Eight warfare, Oklahoma 3-1.

For the first time in Tiger history, Missouri will play to crowds of better than 50,000 at successive home games. Attendance will reach 52,000 on the heels of a 58,000 record turnout for Nebraska.

Incentive Provided For Colo.

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Not many people thought we could win four Big Eight games," said Coach Eddie Crowder of Colorado Wednesday. "This ought to be a fine incentive for us and I'm sure our young men realize they can not afford to let down against Kansas."

Victories in the last two games with Kansas and Air Force would give Crowder's talented young club a third-place 4-2-1 finish in the Big Eight and 6-2-2 for the season, with losses only to third-ranked, unbeaten Nebraska and 9th-ranked Missouri. Crowder's teams were no better than 2-8 in 1963 and 2-8 again in 1964, but they were coming mighty close in several games last year.

"I actually think we built a winning spirit in a 2-8 year," Crowder said. It's evident this year.

Offensive tackle Dick Taylor, one of only a handful of seniors on Crowder's current squad, put it this way:

"The seniors broke in during the rough years. But we have the great satisfaction of knowing we played on the 1965 team, the real beginning of a great program. It's good to be going out a winner. If we can beat Kansas and Air Force we'll have done a lot better than anyone but the players thought we'd do."

The big game in the Big Eight this Saturday will be Oklahoma at Missouri. Decisions will be made today on the availability of Sooner linebacker Carl McAdams and end Russ Washington of Missouri. McAdams has an ankle sprain, Washington a knee injury.

Will Meet Graceland

Warrensburg, (Special)—The Central Missouri State College women's field hockey team, 3-1 victors here last Sunday over the Kansas City Field Hockey Club, will take on a team at Graceland (Iowa) College Saturday.

Scoring for CMS in the Sunday game were Carol Parisi, Linda Craig, and Judy Sills. All ure to be a popular mode of travel in Saturday's 56th meeting between the two groundhogging clubs. Both squads are equipped with speed and power in the backfield, with Mizzou perhaps claiming an edge in seasoned ball-carriers.

At quarterback, too, veteran Gary Lane gives the home team a battle-hardened leader who will be duelling Gene Cagle, the Sooners' capable sophomore. Lane earned the Big Eight's Back-of-the-Week badge against Colorado for what Devine termed "the best game of his whole career."

Missouri's 200-pound option threat now is just 167 yards shy of a 3,000-yard career harvest. He's third on the Bengal rushing tables, but has the best per-carry average of 5.4. Charlie Brown, the league's premier rusher, has 683 yards and a 4.9 average.

Both camps may be short a hardy defender. Sooner Carl McAdams, the rocketing all-America linebacker, is an ankle casualty. Big Russ Washington, massive Mizzou end, is down with a knee strain and will be replaced by Dan Schuppan.

Senior Tigers in their farewell appearance at home Saturday include these 13 stalwarts: Backs — Lane, Johnny Roland, Carl Reese, Ken Boston and Monroe Phelps; linemen — Ray West, Bruce VanDyke, Mike Eader, Butch Allison, Ron Snyder, Francis Peay, Tom Lynn and Jim Waller.

Ol' Mizzou is rated eighth in this week's UPI poll, and ninth in the AP listing. Devine owns just one win (1960) and one tie (1964) in seven encounters with Oklahoma.

KICKOFF: 1:30 p.m. (CST) at Memorial Stadium, Columbia; expected attendance: 52,000; offensive formations: Missouri —

Egad, friends, despite the rash of unexpected results which plagues the collegiate grid powers each Saturday, the Hoople System continues to function normally.

Last week our batting average was a satisfying .722, with 26 winners of the day's top 36 contests — kaff-kaff!

Although it is not my nature to brag, I do feel a duty to my laboratory assistants to point out to the scoffers among you that the Hoople System correctly forecast the amazing upset by the Air Force as they scored their first — ever victory over Army — har-rumph! And on the same card I predicted Tennessee see's startling victory over 7th rated Georgia Tech, and lightly-regarded Memphis State's upending of 15th ranked Utah State!

And now for a look at this week's festivities.

Hold on to your hats, kiddies, here we go again for a wild ride with the Southern Methodist Mustangs! Yes, dear readers, Arkansas' 20-game string is going to be broken as the Mustangs — heh-heh — outrance the Razorbacks at Dallas. I forecast a 17-13 triumph for S.M.U. In the Big Ten, the on-and-off Northwestern Wildcats will be "on" this week as they upset the potent Michigan Wolverines.

The mid-western juggernauts, Michigan State and Notre Dame, racing full-tilt on a collision course, will tune up for their Nov. 20 meeting with relatively easy victories. We foresee Michigan State thumping Indiana, 36-10, and the Irish outpointing North Carolina 33-20.

Remember, you read it first in the Hoople selections.

Central Missouri Conference

Not knowing too much about Illinois teams and having some fair knowledge of our own Central Missouri Conference teams, it's tough to pick but we'll take our chances:

Springfield Parkview 19 at Smith-Cotton 13

Springfield Hillcrest 13 at Jefferson City Jays 27

Mexico 20 at Quincy (Ill.) 14

Hannibal 7 at Jacksonville (Ill.) 19

Rolla 7 at Springfield Glendale 13

We don't have to "ride" with Parkview but in face of holding the top spot in the Ozark circuit, they are bound to be tough. Coach Dick Rees has been working the Tigers fairly hard this week and they looked good Wednesday night — how good, Friday night will tell.

Henderson, McCook Retain Top Spots

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP) — Henderson County of Athens, Tex., and McCook, Neb., retained the top spots for the sixth straight week in the football coaches poll for the National Junior College Athletic Association.

Henderson County has been No. 1 and McCook No. 2 for six weeks. They have 9-0 records.

Others in the top 20 included Missouri Southern of Joplin, 4th; Coffeyville, Kan., 6th; Northeastern Oklahoma of Miami, 11th; Fort Scott, Kan., 12th and Eastern Oklahoma of Wilburton, 18th.

LOUREL RACE COURSE, Md.—Trainer Bill Finnegan has a look at "Hill Rise," after the El Peco Ranch horse was scratched from the race after a brief workout Wednesday.

LaMonte, Green Ridge Are Ousted From Tourney Play

LaMonte's Vikings and the Green Ridge Tigers were ousted from the PBCAA Conference basketball tournament at Cole Camp Wednesday night, while Smithton and Cole Camp moved into the semi-finals round.

Volleyball action saw Sacred Heart and Northwest ousted from the tournament, with Lincoln and Warsaw moving on to the semi-finals.

COLE CAMP 61, LAMONTE 29

David Sublett, a 6-3 senior, slammed 28 points through the basket Wednesday night in leading Cole Camp to its victory. He did it on 13 field goals and two free throws to top the scoring for the entire evening.

After a slow start by both teams in the first quarter, Cole Camp crashed into the game with 21 points in the second period for a 28-12 lead at the half.

LaMonte's best effort of the night netted ten points in the fourth quarter, but Cole Camp's 19 in the same period all but nullified them. Top man for LaMonte was Gary Gill with 11 points.

The victory puts Cole Camp's Bluebirds up against Smithton's Tigers, who defeated Green Ridge. The Birds and Smithton will play Friday for consolation honors.

Score by quarters:
Cole Camp 7 21 14 19—61
LaMonte 6 6 7 10—29

Golf Pros Launch Tournament

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Top golf players from 11 countries, including rookie of the year Homero Blancas of Houston, Tex., launch the Mexican National Open championship for the Seagram Cup today.

The 72-hole tourney will be played on the 6,800-yard, par 72 Bellavista Club course, hosting the national championship for the first time.

Blancas, recovering from a tonsil operation, set the pattern for the international field with a practice five - under - par 67 Wednesday.

Blancas has $30,000 in winnings to his credit already in the first year in professional ranks. The 27-year-old newcomer shot a brilliant 32 on the front nine, despite the fact he has been sidelined for the last two weeks because of his operation.

Sports experts claim competition in the National Open is the fiercest in the 21-year history of the contest.

Among the leaders are Art Wall Jr., who won the Seagram Cup last year and set a tournament record; Gene Littler, fourth highest money winner of all time; Spain's Ramon Sota, who added the Brazilian Open title to the French and Spanish Open this year; Canada's PGA champion Wilf Homenuik; 1965 Caracas Open winner Al Bessellink, and many others.

Wheeler, 2-0-4; S. Mehan, 1-0-2; Jarrett, 1-0-2.

Smithton 66, Green Ridge 32
Smithton's Tigers grabbed the lead in the first quarter, 11-7, and maintained it for the rest of the game. Green Ridge mustered one threat in the contest, in the second quarter, which netted 13 points, but their best after that was eight points in the final period of play.

The up-and-coming Smithton club was paced by David Grupe's 16 points on four field goals and eight from the charity line. His free throw performance, incidentally, was an effort with 100 per cent results.

Mike Turner followed Grupe with 15 tallies on six from the field and three free throws. Top gun for Green Ridge was George Reed with eight points.

Green Ridge 7 13 4 8—32

Robertson

Again Leads

NY Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Wizard of Oz led the New York Knickerbockers through Wonderland again and he's got Harry Gallatin about ready to start talking back to that looking glass.

The Wizard goes under the name of Oscar Robertson and he plays backcourt for the Cincinnati Royals. But he's the Wizard all right. Just ask Gallatin and the rest of the National Basketball Association coaches whose clubs must play the Royals.

Oscar had a routine night against the Knickerbockers Wednesday. He scored 41 points and tacked on 17 assists as the Royals handed New York its 14th straight loss in Wonderland . . . er Cincinnati 124-119.

The Knicks, who play like a jinxed club in Cincinnati, opened an 11-point lead in the second period but saw it whither away under a surge by Robertson and Co.

Jerry Lucas helped the Big O, scoring 28 points and pulling down 21 rebounds. Dick Barnett led New York with 35.

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor combined for 70 points between them as Los Angeles ripped Detroit 133-125 and Baltimore stood off a late St. Louis surge and beat the Hawks 124-117 in the only other NBA games played Wednesday.

Defeated By Archer

Sugar Ray May Drop Out Of Fight Game

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson is near the end of the road but the roar of the crowd still makes sweet music in his ears. The fight with young Joey Archer Wednesday night may have been his last stop. The Harlem dandy wants to think it over for a day or two before he makes up his mind.

The Sugar Man retired way back in 1952 and stayed away for two years. After he came back he won and lost the world middleweight title three times. But the skills that earned him his reputation of the best fighter pound-for-pound in all ring history have faded.

His dream of winning the championship for the sixth time must have vanished in thin air after his game effort but decisive defeat by the 27-year old New York Irishman.

It is Archer's turn to scream "we want Dick Tiger." Chances are he'll get that shot at the middleweight crown. Teddy Brenner, the Madison Square Garden matchmaker, wants to make it for March in New York.

Archer knocked down Robinson for a nine-count to the surprise of the Civic Arena crowd of 9,023 that paid a gross gate of $40,913. He rocked the tired body of the faded ex-champion time after time and almost put him away in the 10th round.

All three officials voted for him — referee Buck McTiernan 48-41, judge Ernie Sesto 49-40 and judge George Lupinacci 50-39. The AP card was 48-41.

When the final bell rang the cheers were for Sugar Ray, who claims to be 44 although the record books carry his age at 45. They weren't applauding because they thought Robinson had won.

They were paying a tribute to a gallant stand by an old man who was still trying to knock out the kid with one big punch. He had only one big round, the third.

The truth of the matter is that Robinson's once potent punch has lost its zip. He raked Archer with left hooks and combinations as he punished Randy Turpin, Gene Fullmer, Jake Lamotta, Rocky Graziano, Carmen

Herzog, Lilly Lost To K. C. Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics lost Whitey Herzog as a coach, it was disclosed Wednesday, and Art Lilly quit as their scout in California. Lilly will join the staff of the Philadelphia Phillies as scout.

Herzog said he'll stay in baseball but his plans are indefinite. He joined the A's as a scout in 1964 and was transferred to the coaching staff before the 1965 season.

Local swim fans can see the action in the next game, scheduled here at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Nov. 20, against Kansas State University.

The swimming schedule for this season includes four freshman dual meets, eight varsity dual meets, two triple meets and two multi-team championship meets.

Form Group to Study Infant Deaths

By DALE NELSON
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — She knew something was wrong the moment she awoke. She roused her husband. "It's 8 o'clock," she said, "what about the baby?"

The baby, a healthy three-month-old, had been waking her parents at 6:45 each morning — as regularly as an alarm clock.

The mother had checked the infant at 6 a.m. found her sleeping and had gone back to bed.

Now, hearing nothing, she checked again. The baby was cold and was not breathing.

Frantically, the mother called the fire department to send a crew with a resuscitator, but the infant could not be revived. The child was pronounced dead a short time later at a hospital.

Dr. Gale Wilson, King County autopsy surgeon, told the parents he saw many such cases every year. The death would be entered as acute pneumonitis. Doctors didn't know what brought it on, but whatever it was it was terribly fast.

Some 15,000 such deaths occur in the United States each year.

In the Seattle area, eight be-reaved couples have formed the Washington Association for Sudden Infant Death Study. Thanks in part to their efforts, an ambitious research project is under way to determine what causes what doctors call the sudden death syndrome, but commonly known as "crib deaths."

The association got its start with a card of sympathy. Mrs. Francis R. Jones, a Seattle policeman's wife, sent one to State Sen. and Mrs. Fred H. Dore. Mrs. Jones did not know the Dores, but had read in a newspaper that they had found their youngest child dead in its crib on the same day she and her husband lost a baby in the same way.

Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Dore became acquainted. Then Mrs. Dore heard of another crib death and wrote a note of sympathy to the parents. A few couples got together and held a meeting, with a pediatrician as a speaker.

They learned that pathologists in various parts of the country had been doing research on possible causes of the sudden unexplained deaths.

But most studies were hampered, the parents were told, by being limited to autopsies performed in coroner's offices.

Sen. Dore went to see King County Coroner Leo Sowers and asked him if he was aware of the problem. He was very aware of it, Sowers said. Nine years earlier, he and his wife had lost a child to the sudden death syndrome.

With the help of Dore, a Democrat, and Sowers, a Republican, a bill was put through the 1963 Washington Legislature. It changed the coroner law so that cases of sudden infant death could be referred to the University of Washington Medical School for autopsy.

A $20,000 appropriation was passed and renewed in 1965. After a two-year preliminary study, the university medical school transferred the base of the research project to Children's Orthopedic Hospital and Medical center.

Children's Orthopedic has received a $144,000 three-year grant from the National Institutes of Health for the study.

Drs. Bruce Beckwith and Abraham Bergman, faculty members at university who are on staff at the hospital, are conducting it. Sowers has made Dr. Beckwith a deputy coroner.

Earlier in his career, Dr. Beckwith performed 300 autopsies on sudden infant death victims in four years as a pathologist with the Los Angeles County coroner's office. Dr. Bergman, a pediatrician, also has had previous experience with the problem.

They expect it will be at least three years before they have any conclusive results.

"We're satisfied that there is more than one factor," says Dr. Beckwith, "but probably the majority will be found to be due to one cause."

Dr. Bergman has found the syndrome to be very uncommon beneath the age of three weeks, most common between two and three months, uncommon after six months and almost unheard of after one year.

"We feel it is the single most common cause of infant death Outside of the newborn period," says Dr. Bergman. "We know it is happening all over the world. There is research being done on it in various places in the United States, in England and, we understand, in Czechoslovakia.

Wage-Price Guidelines Route to 'Great Society'

By JOHN T. CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — Wage-price guidelines are at the root of the price-increase commotion between the Johnson administration and the aluminum industry.

In the view of the administration, the guidelines are route markers to the "Great Society." As some businessmen view it, guidelines are an unwarranted interference in the free operation of the market place.

The administration feels that the aluminum industry in announcing a half-cent increase to 25 cents a pound crossed the markers and threatened inflation.

Industry spokesmen say the half-cent increase was needed for research, development and profits.

But, said Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers: "Under the guidelines, such industries — those with productivity increases above average — should not be raising prices."

Judging from the past examples it may be permissible to cross the lines slightly. Some say this was done in the steel industry wage agreement. But if the administration feels the lines are literally violated, it now appears it intends to blow the whistle.

Guidelines, or areas of permissible movement, exist primarily for wages and prices, neither of which supposedly should exceed the economy's average productivity increase of about 3.2 per cent.

They are but one of several voluntary programs involving businessmen. Industry, for example, has also been asked to restrict voluntarily overseas investments to maintain the stability of the dollar.

These guidelines are not backed by legislation. Rather they are enforced positively by a call to patriotism or the national interest — which no manufacturer of a consumer product can ignore — and negatively by the ominous threat of hard legislation.

In the case of aluminum industry, enforcement of the guidelines was given added impact by the fact that the federal government is the industry's biggest customer and potentially its biggest competitor.

Some labor leaders as well as businessmen have criticized the guidelines as unworkable and inequitable. But most criticism comes from businessmen and bankers, such as David Rockefeller, president of the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York.

"I fear we are in danger," he said, "of backing inadvertently into a managed economy and I am convinced this is not the high road to the good life. The forces of the market place can be blunted by over-regulation."

Hearings On Trains Move To Oklahoma

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Hearings on a petition by the Rock Island Railroad to eliminate two passenger trains between Kansas City and Fort Worth wound up here Tuesday and switched to Oklahoma City today.

Testimony Tuesday by a Rock Island official reiterated the company's contention that removal of trains 17 and 18 would not greatly jeopardize the convenience of passengers, and in 1966 would save the company $240,000.

Garet Kerstra of Chicago, assistant general manager of passenger service, said accommodations for travel between Kansas City and Fort Worth could be met adequately by the Santa Fe Railway and bus lines.

Company officials testified Monday the railroad lost $533,334 between Jan. 1 and June 30 by operating trains which serve Kansas City, Mo., Kansas City, Kan., Topeka, Herington, Wichita and Caldwell, Kan.; Enid, El Reno, Chickasha, Duncan and Waurika, Okla., and Bowie and Fort Worth, Tex.

At conclusion of testimony Thursday at Oklahoma City, findings will be presented to the ICC, with a decision expected in four months.

Power At A Glance

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's a rundown on the power failure which gripped the Northeast for more than 10 hours:

THE EXTENT — At its peak Tuesday night, the power failure and companion blackout encompassed 80,000 square miles and 30 million persons in New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Vermont, Rhode Island and Toronto and Ottawa in Canada. It hit about 5:30 p.m. (EST) and New York City, one of the last areas to have power restored, was without lights until 3:35 a.m. today.

THE CAUSE — Unknown as yet, although some experts attributed it to a breakdown at a remote-control substation near Syracuse, N.Y. Suggestions of sabotage generally were discounted. President Johnson ordered Federal Power Commission Chairman Joseph C. Swidler to launch an immediate investigation.

TRANSPORTATION — Striking in the heart of the evening rush hour, the blackout snarled traffic in the car-clogged streets, brought New York's subway system to a halt and stopped elevators between floors. An estimated 850,000 persons were stranded on the subways.

COMMUNICATIONS — Civilian communication system — The Associated Press, the radio-television networks — were silenced, but their direction was transferred to other centers, primarily Washington. The Pentagon reported that its bases switched instantly to emergency power and neither they nor the Washington-Moscow hot line were hampered.

NIGHT DRIVING DANGERS—Auto fatality figures for 1964 prove again that night driving is far more dangerous than day driving. Chart above uses deaths per 100,000 vehicle miles for comparison. The dangers are less apparent in the actual numbers of deaths—53 per cent at night and 47 per cent daytime for the nation.

Facts Behind the Headlines

30 Million Felt Effects Of Northeastern Blackout

TORONTO (AP) — The electricity that browns your toast, cooks your dinner or sends you home on subways or streetcars went the wrong way Tuesday night. The result affected 30 million people in Canada and the United States.

Officials of the publicly-owned Ontario Hydroelectric Power Commission, at a candle-lit interview during three successive blackouts in Toronto, told this version of how it happened:

At around 5:15 p.m., when wives were getting supper and commuters in southeastern Ontario and along the U.S. Atlantic seaboard were starting home — there was what Consolidated Edison in New York called "an electrical disturbance" somewhere in northern New York.

A complex of interlocking power lines extends from Quebec through Ontario to power companies of New York State, and from there south to the Gulf of Mexico and west to Montana.

This interconnection complex, called a grid, carries electric power from the rivers of northern Quebec and Ontario, from steam-operated power plants in Ontario and hydroelectric plants nestling on both sides of the Niagara River and in New York State. Power is traded back and forth among the companies, and regions as demand rises and falls.

The system is called CANUSE, or Canada-United States-Eastern interconnection. When one link in the system needs power, it draws it from another.

Tuesday evening power was moving into Ontario through Niagara Falls from Upstate New York when something happened in a high-voltage line south of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Then, Ontario hydro officials said, "a surge of electricity" sent power flowing into the system at Cornwall, Ont.—in the opposite direction to the normal flow at that hour. Unchecked, this could have caused enormous damage to distribution equipment.

Technicians at the Richview control center in suburban Toronto spotted the reversal and pulled switches that isolated southern and eastern Ontario from the interlocking grid.

That's when the power was cut off from various centers in Ontario. The blackout lasted from five minutes to two hours in some places because it takes time for generating units that are in reserve to build up to the power demand.

The surge of power from New York entered the Canadian system at Cornwall through an interconnection, flashed across the southern Ontario network and back into New York through an interconnection at Niagara Falls, officials said.

When Ontario was disconnected from the grid, steam-powered generating systems near Toronto and Windsor, Ont., were put into operation to produce needed power.

Ironically, the interlocking power grid designed to assure a supply of electricity in an emergency helped spread the blackout over a huge area, including all of New York City. About one-fifth of the U.S. population was affected.

The blackout spread could not have occurred 20 years ago when power lines were not so united. The lines today are joined as tightly as telephone lines.

In New York a spokesman for Consolidated Edison Corp., said New York City might have been spared if that utility could voluntarily have released itself immediately from the interconnection.

The blackout result was, by many standards, the greatest technological breakdown of modern times.

The interconnected system is the epitome of sophisticated technology. It operates almost automatically. Because its parts were so united, they dropped all together. Like a tree felled by an ax.

This system is part of a nationwide power grid in which 97 per cent of the electric industry's generating capacity is joined in five large networks.

The U.S. government, mindful that the nation's electricity needs have doubled every 10 years for the past 30 years, has encouraged and prodded utilities to intertie in this manner.

Power Loss No Bother To Military

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department claims its own web of military communications with all military bases in the Northeastern United States kept going throughout the critical hours of power failure Tuesday night when paralysis gripped civilian systems.

Emergency generating systems at big strategic Air, Army and Navy installations in the affected area were cut into operation almost instantly as energy from commercial circuits cut off.

A Pentagon spokesman said there was no indication of communication failure anywhere in the intricate and duplicating voice, radio and Teletype circuits that link the bases to the National Military Command Center in the Joint Chiefs of Staff area of the Pentagon.

What he described as "normal communications with all vital military areas" was maintained.

Pentagon officials presented a picture of confidence in the emergency system which was put to sudden and unplanned test.

By mid-evening, the offices of top officials were vacant, with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Joint Chiefs of Staff apparently headed for home.

But, despite the Pentagon's air of confidence, it was obvious questions about the impact of this or possible future similar occurrences gnawed at the high levels of government.

President Johnson, in ordering a broadscale investigation of the power disaster, directed that the investigators consult with McNamara, among others in the government.

The blackout is certain to be discussed Thursday when McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and others are scheduled to confer with Johnson at the LBJ Ranch in Texas.

Although the initial reaction of the White House was to rule out possibility of sabotage, this obviously would be a subject for attention of investigators. The military has its own system of investigators and technicians skilled in power and communications systems.

There was no interruption on the "hot line" connecting Washington and Moscow — the Teletype link over which President Johnson and Soviet leaders would communicate in dire emergency. This cable circuit is routed from Washington through London, Copenhagen, Stockholm and Helsinki. An alternate radio circuit is routed from Washington through Tangier to Moscow.

The Pentagon has four command centers, each with its own worldwide communications system.

Direct "hot lines" connect the command centers with the homes of top civilian and military officials. Even when they are away from their homes or offices and traveling by automobile or aircraft mobile telephone connections are maintained.

Computer Product Burns Out

By JOHN T. CUNIFF
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The teaming, densely populated Northeast of the United States was plunged into darkness and confusion by failure in an electric power system considered the last word in sophisticated engineering and the products of computer science.

Ironically, the interlocking power grid designed to assure a supply of electricity in an emergency helped spread the blackout Tuesday night over a huge area, including all of New York City. About one-fifth of the nation's population was affected.

Today government and utility engineers are trying to find how to keep the system from failing again and spreading chaos.

The system is part of a power pool in which a number of independent and public utilities link lines for economy, efficiency, national defense and — ironically — for dependability.

The initial failure was traced, one source said, to a power junction 10 miles west of Buffalo, N.Y., where the integrated system normally receives 40 million kilowatts of power for redistribution.

From there the blackout spread—just like power normally would be distributed—throughout the system. It could not have occurred 20 years ago when power lines were not so united. But the lines today are joined as tightly as telephone lines.

A spokesman for Consolidated Edison Corp. said New York City might have been spared if the utility could voluntarily have released itself immediately from the interconnection.

The blackout result was, by many standards, the greatest technological breakdown of modern times. It could not have happened to a less intricate, less precise and scientifically conceived system.

This system is the epitome of sophisticated technology. It operates almost automatically. Because its parts were so united, they dropped all together, like a tree felled by an ax.

The system was part of a nationwide power grid in which 97 per cent of the electric industry's generating capacity is joined in five large networks.

The federal government, mindful that the nation's electricity needs have doubled every 10 years for the past 80 years, has encouraged and produced utilities to intertie in this manner.

One of these systems covers New York, New England and other sections of the Northeast, including a section of Ontario, Canada. It is called the Canada-U.S. Eastern Interconnection. It was this area that was hit by the blackout.

Since electric power cannot be stored, pools, interties or grids permit companies to borrow from each other to meet sudden power demands. In a pool, theoretically, there is always available power which automatically tends to flow to the point of demand.

Says Jesus Planned His Own Death

LONDON (AP) — A controversial new book claiming that Jesus planned his own crucifixion is disturbing many churchmen of all denominations in Britain.

The book—titled "The Passover Plot"—suggests that Jesus, believing himself to be the promised Messiah, schemed throughout his life to manipulate people so that the Old Testament prophecies would be fulfilled.

The writer is Dr. Hugh J. Schonfield, a Jewish scholar living in London, well-known for his modern translation of the New Testament and some 30 commentaries on Biblical history.

Published here by Hutchinson, the book will appear in the United States when negotiations over the rights are concluded.

Schonfield, 64, says he subscribes to no religious creed himself though he believes in God as pure spirit. He insists he has written his book not to create a sensation but in an honest search for truth. His claims, he says, are the result of more than 40 years of objective research.

Writing of the events of Passion Week, Schonfield says: "A conspiracy had to be organized of which the victim himself was the principal instigator. It was a nightmarish conception and undertaking, the outcome of the frightening logic of a sick mind or a genius. And it worked out."

According to Schonfield, Jesus knew the church had to be founded on fulfillment of prophecies, so he planned that fulfillment in the minutest detail.

He timed the plan for his apparent death so that he would be crucified on Friday, knowing that because of the Jewish Sabbath he would be taken down from the cross within a few hours.

Schonfield claims: — The vinegar passed to Jesus on a sponge was really a drug passed by an accomplice, enabling him to simulate death, so his legs would not be broken like those of the two thieves crucified with him. The blood that flowed from his side showed he was still living, Schonfield claims.

— The linens and spices used to wrap his body acted as dressings for his injuries. He probably briefly recovered consciousness after being laid in the tomb, but succumbed from the soldier's lance wound in his side. His body was secretly taken away and buried, leaving the mystery of the empty tomb.

Throughout, Schonfield seems anxious to avoid appearing an anti-Christian propagandist. He insists nothing can be proved either way. And, in arguing that Jesus did not die on the cross and that his resurrection was part of a prearranged plan, he insists there was no deliberate untruth in the witness of Christ's followers.

Neither was there any fraud on the part of Jesus himself, Schonfield says.

"He had schemed in faith for his physical recovery, and what he expected was frustrated by circumstances beyond his control," Schonfield writes.

Church leaders in Britain have thus far withheld public comment on the book. Two Church of England priests who read it said they took it seriously although they disapproved.

Scores of earnest churchgoers wrote to the newspapers, mostly in condemnation of the book.

Matter of Fact

The Carthusians are an order of monks who lead hermit's lives. Carthusians live in a small house or "cell" with a small garden outside. Here they study, work, pray, sleep and eat. Their food is delivered to them. They wear a hair shirt and practice total abstinence from flesh food. On Fridays and other fast days, they take only bread and water.

Hearings On Klan Derailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two administration drives in the courts and in the Congress aimed at checking civil rights violence have collided after a mixup in signals — derailing the House hearings on the Ku Klux Klan.

Trying to build up to a climax before recessing until next year, the House Committee on Un-American Activities planned to flash the spotlight on the 1964 night rider murder of Negro educator Lemuel Penn.

In so doing, the committee thought it had the green light from the Justice Department to question Klansmen who chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., said were "involved in the killing" of Penn.

It had subpoenaed Klansmen from the Athens, Ga., area, including J. Howard Sims and Cecil Myers, who had been accused of the slaying but freed by a Georgia state court.

Sims and Myers were waiting in the hearing room to testify Tuesday when the green light suddenly turned to red.

Amid surprise and consternation, a meeting was hurriedly called by Willis to change plans after a weekend letter from Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach asking the committee not to delve into the Penn case at this time.

What had happened was that the Justice Department was asking the Supreme Court Tuesday to revive federal felony indictments in the Penn case and in the slaying of three civil rights workers near Philadelphia, Miss., in 1964.

Katzenbach was afraid the congressional hearings could prejudice further court hearings, and the committee agreed to go along with his request.

Willis dismissed the Klansmen from the Athens, Ga., area until Jan. 4 and recessed the hearing "until further call of the chair."

In the 12 days of public hearings that began last month, the committee has piled up 1,400 pages of testimony from 52 witnesses — much of it Fifth Amendment pleadings by Klan officials.

But all the members of the committee — technically sitting as a subcommittee — have expressed satisfaction with the way things have gone so far.

In summing up Tuesday, Willis said the investigation had shown various Klansmen and their leaders fudging on taxes and Klan finances, using front names for klaverns, carrying weapons, learning how to make fire bombs and other tactics of terrorism, of enrolling former convicts and of setting up secret organizations such as the Vigilantes "for carrying out acts of violence or terrorism."

Take Death Out of Roads

If a president of the United States were to suggest that the deaths of 50,000 American soldiers a year, every year, would be a reasonable price to pay for the security of the nation he would be smotheringly defeated if he dared to run for re-election.

Yet 50,000 lives a year is beginning to be talked about as the minimum price Americans can hope to pay for the privilege of driving automobiles.

And that grim massacre will only be held that low through the most strenuous effort—only, that is, if the present death rate on the highways is cut in half.

The rate is already half of what it was 30 years ago. It hit an all-time low of 5.2 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles in 1961, then began creeping upward to reach 5.7 in 1964.

Even if the rate could be held constant, total deaths must go up because highway travel is increasing by about 5 per cent a year.

Significantly, the fatality rate on the Interstate Highway System is 2.8 per 100 million vehicle miles, compared with 9.7 on the older highways.

The new superhighways are already saving one life for every five miles open to traffic. On the basis of experience this far, they will save 8,000 lives a year when the network is completed.

The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads

notes that most accidents happen to normal people driving in a normal way on normal roads. It is not a small group of chronically dangerous drivers which is responsible for most accidents. Accidents involve an almost entirely different group of drivers every year.

In many cases, the existing vehicle-highway system makes too great demands on drivers. They are being asked to make judgments and decisions more quickly and more accurately than they are able to.

Since the same people drive on the Interstate as on the older roads, the lower fatality rate on the former must be due to better roads, not better drivers, reasons the bureau.

Calling for a new approach to safety that views it as just as much a technological problem as it is a legal, administrative and educational one, the bureau is pushing a two-pronged attack.

One stresses the immediate need—improving hazardous locations that exist, such as two-lane rural highways and urban intersections, and completing the Interstate system (about 47 per cent open to traffic at mid-summer).

The other is directed toward long-range improvements, with research aimed at engineering greater safety into the country's entire transportation system, so that all drivers, not just the minority of reckless ones are helped.

Aluminum Companies 'Ungrateful'

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This is the story of an American, born in Russia, whose adopted country gave him such opportunities that he became many times a millionaire, but who is now howling his head off because the government that helped him wants to hold down the price of aluminum.

It's the story of Leo Harvey, head of Harvey Aluminum. With it goes the story of his family which also received great benefits from the United States of America. It's a story not unlike that of the other aluminum companies, most of which were put in business by Uncle Sam, loaned money by him to build their factories, given a guaranteed price, plus government contracts.

Yet they are now squawking because the government which befriended them is selling part of its stockpile to keep aluminum prices down.

Leo Harvey, an energetic Russian immigrant, began to make big money on munitions contracts during the last war. At that time the Navy investigated and stopped his brother, Herbert Harvey, from sneaking off-sized 20-mm shells past Navy inspectors. But the Navy didn't prosecute. And the Harvey family went on to more government contracts and bigger profits. The family also went on into politics, cosying up to both political parties and contributing substantially to each.

On the Republican side, the Harveys hired Tom Dewey, twice GOP candidate for president. On the Democratic side, Mrs. Carmine Warschaw, daughter of Leo, has been southern California chairman while her brother Lawrence was once candidate to be Democratic national committeeman from California.

Republican Bonanza

However, it was under the Republicans that the Harveys got some of their juiciest help from the generous government which gave them a haven.

In 1955, Tom Dewey sent his law associate, James F. Nickerson, to Washington to persuade Eisenhower officials to give the Harveys a heads-they-win, tails-the-government-loses contract. The Harveys got an agreement to sell aluminum to the government for five years, plus a certificate of tax amortization on their new plant, plus an agreement that a power line would be built from the Dalles, Ore., to Bonneville to bring in cheap government power.

The power line was to cost Uncle Sam $2,000,000. But at the last minute watchful Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., knocked the item out.

On top of this, the government dug a 15-foot barge channel up the Columbia River to the Harvey aluminum plant at the Dallas, a channel which chiefly benefits the Harveys.

At that time, the government had a staggering stockpile of 765,000 tons of aluminum. Uncle Sam needed more aluminum like he needed a hole in his head. Despite this, Tom Dewey's law firm had managed to persuade the government to buy 200,000 tons of aluminum from the Harveys to add to the stockpile. Dewey, according to testimony before Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., did this by calling on Sherman Adams, then No. 2 man in the White House, who in turn called Ed Mansure, then head of General Services and in charge of stockpiles. Instructions were given to buy the 200,000 tons of aluminum.

This is the same Harvey Aluminum which now complains when the United States government sells the same amount of aluminum which it once purchased from Harvey —200,000 tons—after Harvey and other members of the aluminum industry had increased prices.

Landlord Harvey

This, however, is only part of the story of the Russian immigrant and his family and how they have benefited from a kindly Uncle Sam.

The Harveys own the Harvey building at 417 S. Hill Street, Los Angeles, where up until the spring of this year no minorities were employed and where a strict non-union policy was enforced.

President Johnson is well known for both his championship of minorities and his friendly policy toward labor unions. Nevertheless the Johnson administration rents office space from the Harveys for the Agriculture Department, the GSA, the Department of HEW, Internal Revenue, the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Treasury, Post Office Department and the Social Security Administration.

This is all rented from the company which last week complained because the government was trying to keep aluminum prices down.

The Harvey family also owns the building at 909 S. Broadway in Los Angeles, where they follow the same policy on minority races and unions. While the federal government rents no office space there, Gov. Pat Brown, a close friend of President Johnson and in sympathy with him on keeping prices down, does rent space for the Colorado River Board and the California Division of Water Resources.

The state of California also rents space in the Harvey building on Hill St., for its department of rehabilitation, and garages all its cars connected with narcotic cases in that building.

In the Virgin Islands, Harvey Aluminum recently persuaded Secretary of the Interior Udall and Gov. Ralph Paiewonsky to OK the purchase of a large tract of land on St. Croix for bauxite development, despite the opposition of many Virgin Islands residents who wanted to keep that scenic area as a non-industrialized tourist mecca.

The story of some of the other aluminum companies and the concessions they got from a kindly government which they are now criticizing for holding aluminum prices will follow in another column.

Guest Editorials

Began.—Down in Arkansas they still have a law forbidding schools to teach that man was created by evolution. Being a Baptist and a fundamentalist, Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus objects to the repeal of that law. But a tiny key to a bigger key to the secret of the origin of living cells was disclosed at the convention of the American Chemical Society.

Dr. Cyril Ponnamperuma, a NASA chemist, has succeeded in creating a linkup between two molecules of uridylic acid, which is one of the nucleotides in ribonucleic acid which is a claim of molecules mysteriously dominating the chemogenic functioning of chromosomes, which differentiate the cell's protoplasm, which is what produces individuals or diverse species.

In a way, now that we've listened to Dr. Ponnamperuma, we sympathize with Gov. Faubus. It is a lot simpler to teach what the Bible says, "God created man," than to find out and explain to a schoolchild scientifically just how He did it.

Law of Average Against LB J's Luck

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Under the law of averages President Johnson's luck in foreign affairs won't last.

In the first year of his full term foreign crises have been relatively few at a time when he was anxious to concentrate on domestic problems and getting his programs through Congress.

Today he arranged a full-scale review of foreign policy with top-level Cabinet officers at his Texas ranch, the first of its kind since his gall bladder operation Oct. 8. He had held such meetings regularly before that.

Nothing indicated this one would be unusual, which is a reminder that except for the Dominican Republic revolt and the continuing war in Viet Nam Johnson has been fairly free of overseas dilemmas, at least critical ones.

There has been a basic difference between the way Johnson and President John F. Kennedy tackled foreign policy. From the very first Kennedy plunged head-first into it, and personally.

In less than three years he made an excellent impression abroad. But Johnson has played foreign policy in a much lower key. One example: In his first year Kennedy made a trip abroad; Johnson has stayed home.

But in the two biggest and most critical problems that confronted them in their first five months Johnson took far more forceful and positive action than Kennedy.

The latter supported the invasion of Fidel Castro's Cuba by Cuban exiles but he failed to back them with U.S. forces and many of them perished on the beaches. It was a disaster. Kennedy took the blame. But he suffered for it.

When the Dominican revolt began Johnson sent 22,000 troops into the republic — to prevent a Communist takeover, he said — and, although this manpower may have been more than was needed, the revolt subsided.

Kennedy, following former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's policy of helping South Viet Nam resist the Viet Cong attempt to conquer it, began a gradual American military build-up. But the Viet Cong continued to progress.

By the time Johnson began his own first full term, South Viet Nam was dwindling into chaos. He poured in American troops, began bombing North Viet Nam and stopped the Viet Cong tide.

But elsewhere for Johnson the world has been relatively quiet. Another lucky point for him is that he hasn't had to cope with anyone so unpredictable or pushy as Kennedy encountered: Russian Premier Khrushchev.

He was an endless problem to Kennedy. Johnson has had none of that, or almost none of it. By the time he took office Khrushchev had quieted down and was finally thrown out. His successors play low key, like Johnson.

As Russia muted its hostility Red China became communism's loud mouth and Johnson's most constant problem. But, luckily for him, China began to suffer rebuffs and setbacks without any apparent direct American action.

Since Johnson's predecessors all the way back to President Franklin D. Roosevelt got engulfed in one crisis after another, this year for Johnson is apt to look like no more than a coffee break before he moves out of the White House.

At the moment — besides the Viet Cong, the North Vietnamese and the Red Chinese — Johnson's greatest irritant seems to be French President Charles de Gaulle who has just asked his people to give him another seven-year term.

When Kennedy journeyed to Europe in his first year, he met De Gaulle, among others. It would not be surprising if Johnson next year, particularly if Congress finishes its work early, made one or more trips abroad.

Sooner or later he will have to get deeper into foreign affairs, if only to give the Western world a far more vital leadership than it has now. Without such leadership the Western alliance, under De Gaulle's heckling, may crumble.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Backache: Commonest Of Man's Complaints

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The patient opened our conversation by saying: "I've had a weak back for a week back." I almost said, "Hasn't everybody?" because backache, low back pain, lumbago or sacroiliac strain — you can take your pick — is one of the commonest of all complaints.

The spinal column, designed as a bridge between the forelegs and the hindlegs of quadrupeds, has in man assumed the difficult task of holding the body erect. It is a wonder that it does as well as it does.

One of the most frequent causes of back pain is a "slipped disk." This is a misnomer because the soft gelatinous disk that serves as a cushion between the individual vertebrae does not slip. It degenerates and as a result ruptures or protrudes and puts painful pressure on a spinal nerve.

When this happens the surrounding muscles go into spasm to prevent or minimize the movements that would aggravate the pain. Unfortunately, prolonged contraction or spasm of the muscles is also painful. This increases the spasm and sets up a vicious cycle.

There are, of course, many other causes of low back pain.

It often accompanies menstruation but this is temporary and disappears with the cessation of the period. Other causes include arthritis, gout, trichinosis, collapse of a softened vertebra due to osteoporosis, faulty posture and injury.

A severe backache is often caused by a surprisingly mild injury — a misstep, a sudden twist even during sleep, and straightening up too fast after stooping or the jolt of jumping off a stool. Weakness due to insufficient exercise, although not a direct cause, favors such injuries and is believed to be one reason the incidence of backache is increasing.

Having one leg shorter than the other will also cause pain in the back because it throws the whole spinal column off balance. Even our emotions may be the underlying cause of the backache, especially in persons who suffer from great nervous tension, because this increases muscle tensions.

Having explored the causes of backache, two facts emerge. First, many of the causes are preventable and, second, not all backaches will respond to the same treatment. More about prevention and treatment in another column.

School and You

Sacrifice for Advice

By Susan Light

DEAR MRS. LIGHT: We're in need of any help you can give us with our 9-year-old son. He lies, has no regard for rules and takes objects from the house without telling us. He gets good marks in school; that is, when he wants to do the work. But he won't obey except when he feels like it. When he's questioned about the wrong he does, he says it's because he wants to. Now he wants to play with girls when there are boys of all ages he can play with.

We're very much upset about all this for we want him to grow up with respect for others and to know that things can't always go his way. He's an only child and we love him very much. But he is not spoiled. We don't always give in to him although he is a very lovable little boy.

We can't afford to take him to a professional consultant. What shall we do? — Air Force Parents

ANSWER: I wish I could give you a magic formula that would solve your problem. But deep-seated problems like yours are the type that teachers refer to the school psychologist whenever possible. He has the background to determine what the basic difficulty is and to work with the child, teacher and parents to correct.

Have you talked with your son's teacher? She may be glad to make a psychological and/or medical referral. Undoubtedly, she's just as upset about your son's behavior at this point as you are.

If you have no school psychologist, there may be a physician, psychologist, or psychiatrist on the base who would be willing to advise you. Have you inquired?

In a similar-sounding case I know of, the school psychologist discovered that the boy's mother, although she loved him dearly, ly, was too fussy and demanding. She didn't give her son a chance to be a boy. When she cut the demands on which both parents insisted he toe the mark — or else — and overlooked his other faults, the boy began to behave, both at school and at home.

Your son's misbehavior, however, may stem from anything such as lack of old-fashioned discipline to brain damage. For his sake and yours, don't go on this way another week. If free professional advice is not available, eat beans to pay for it.

No-Trump Call Has Advantage

The greatest advantage of the artificial two no-trump response to show the equivalent of a forcing raise of partner's major suit opening is that it gives an extra round of bidding to explore slam possibilities.

suit with a good hand and no singleton, and to four of his suit with a bad hand and no singleton. When he has a singleton he shows it irrespective of the strength of his hand by bidding three of the singleton suit.

South's three spade rebid was right up North's alley. North had a very sound hand and the one weakness was three little spades. When South showed a singleton in that suit, North was ready for the Blackwood routine. Then after South showed two aces and two kings, North was able to bid the grand slam with complete confidence.

How did North know that his partner held the right two kings? Because South had shown a singleton in spades by his three spade bid and the ace of spades when he showed two aces. Hence, South's singleton spade was the ace and he could not also hold the King.

This hand came up when we were first experimenting with this bid. It occurred in a sectional tournament and when the results were in we were delighted to find that no one else had bid the grand slam and that over half of the field had stopped at game.

Democrat Pick-ups

DRIVING A group of women to another town to a meeting the man was probably getting tired of hearing the constant chatter.

"Have you seen any persimmons?" asked one.

"They're not ripe yet," commented the man, "and right now they'd sure shut your mouth." — H. L.

ON ONE OF the beautiful Indian Summer Sundays a mother said to her children: "We are going for a ride in the country, we'll walk through the woods, and we'll read poetry."

"A ride in the country, a walk through the woods" agreed her seven year old son — "but no poetry."

And so the family did just what she said they would do — well, no, they did what he said they would do — a ride in the country, a walk through the woods — but no poetry. — H. L.

BERRY'S WORLD

"There is your land—you're through!"

BATTLING THE BUSH

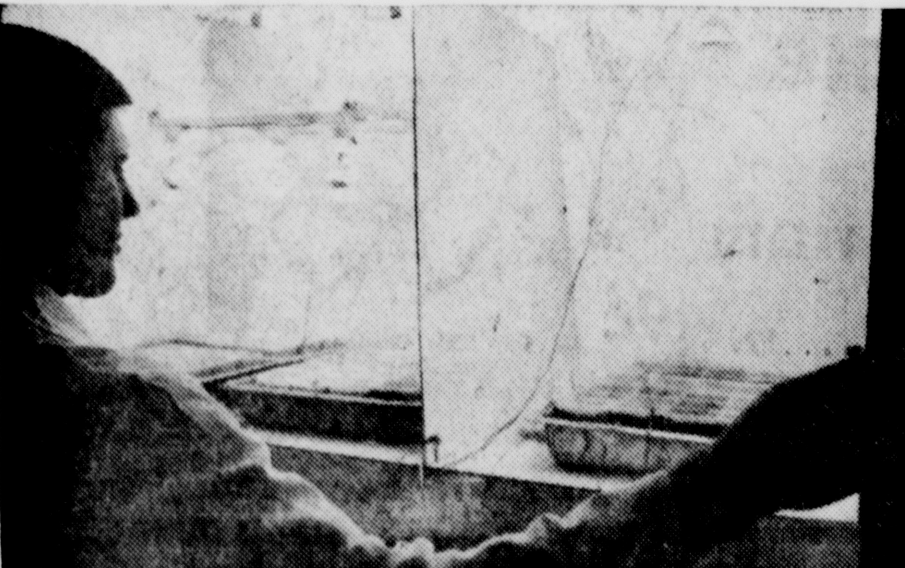

Scarcity of water isn't the only serious natural problem facing the Southwest. The spread of mesquite and other bushes which turn grazing land into desert wastes threatens nearly 100 million acres of valuable grassland in semi-arid regions. Most prevalent enemy is honey mesquite which robs grasses of moisture and now has a foothold on some 80 million acres in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona alone. The struggle is grim and U.S. Agricultural Research Service scientists and conservationists at the Jornada Experimental Range in southern New Mexico are grimly at work seeking an effective counterattack in the Battle of the Bush.

This broad expanse of good rangeland is on the government's 105,700-acre Jornada Experimental Range in New Mexico.

Less than a mile away lies this stretch of once good rangeland, now a scene of desolation after the bush has taken over.

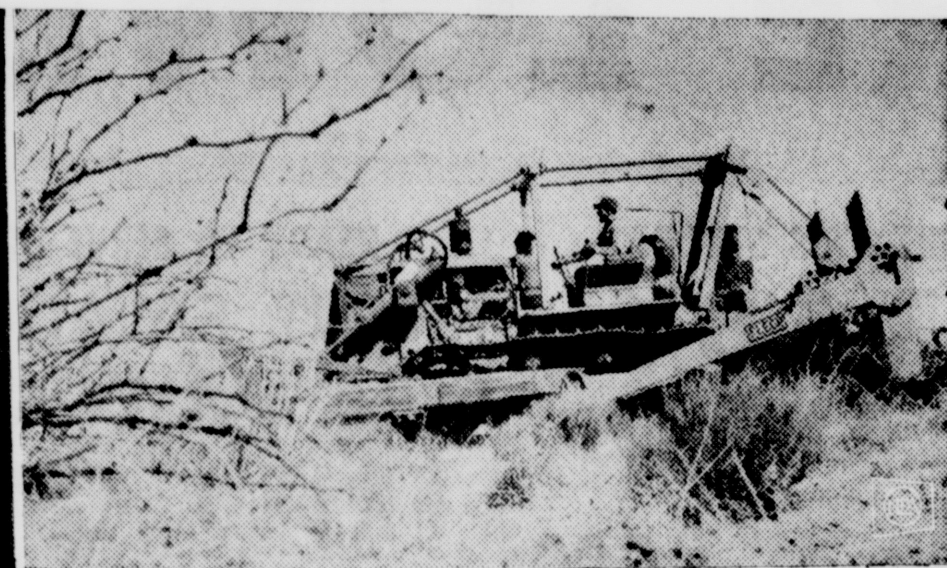

A technician checks laboratory hot boxes where heat lamps simulate rangeland growing conditions. The research yields information on mesquite growth patterns and grass reseeding problems.

Chemical warfare is one means of attack. A spoonful of 25-per cent fenuron pellets tossed on a medium-sized mesquite bush is usually a fatal dosage.

A wire frame is positioned at the Jornada range. Grass samples are taken from the frame from time to time for laboratory study.

Bulldozers are an effective but expensive means of destroying bush. Now under study is attachment of planters to backs of bulldozers for simultaneous bush control and reseeding.

Is Certain CMSC Will Keep School

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Paul Roberts, chairman of the College Committee of Jackson County, said he is confident Central Missouri State College will continue to operate its residence center in Independence.

His comment was in response to a recommendation by the State Commission on Higher Education that the Independence school and a similar one operated at West Plains by Southwest Missouri State College be phased out by 1967.

The final decision on Independence, Roberts said, is up to the regents at Warrensburg.

"As long as higher education needs exist in this area, we feel they will continue to serve this metropolitan portion of their 21-county area," he said.

The committee which Roberts heads administers the school's site and physical plant at no cost to the state. Warrensburg State provides the faculty and academic administration. Roberts contends this is also without expense to the state.

The committee on Higher Education recommended to the governor Monday that residence centers be denied state financial aid and phased out in favor of community junior colleges.

H. Lang Rogers Jr., Joplin, newspaper executive, who is chairman of the commission said Tuesday night:

"It was the feeling of at least the bulk of the commission that residence centers — as a policy for statewide development of higher education — would bring about some second-rate education."
